Rain, cold slow Valley's harvest

TWIN FALLS — Cold weather and rain have temporarily stopped or slowed harvest of beans and sweet corn in the Magic Valley.

Don Youtz, Twin Falls County agent, said mud stopped the bean and corn harvest.

He said heavy machinery has not been able to get into fields. Youtz said the wet weather shouldn't hurt the beans as long as the ground and plants don't remain wet too long.

Beans that have been cut and windrowed have to dry before harvesting can be finished. Youtz said the only problems that could be encountered with beans is if the weather stayed wet for a couple of weeks, causing a mold on the beans.

He said if the cut plants are wet too long they may have to be turned. "A few sunny days and most of the farmers will be back in operation," he said.

"I don't think it's a disaster, but if the wet weather continues it could cause problems," Youtz said.

Youtz added that frost last night wasn't enough to cause any problem or damage. He said there are still some garden seed beans in the field growing, but slight frost will not cause any damage.

The J. R. Simplot Co., Heyburn, received 137 truck loads or 45,000 bags of potatoes Monday. According to Don Robertson, field manager, it was the biggest day for the company so far this year.

Israeli strikes pledged against terrorist foes

By United Press International
Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today in Jerusalem that Israel would smite terrorists "wherever it can reach them." And official Cairo Radio said Israel in agreement with the United States is about to carry out a large scale military operation against Syria and Lebanon.

Lebanese residents of the southern Lebanese city of Sidon said two Israeli warplanes broke the sound barrier over the town today. They told UPI in Beirut the planes came in from the sea and headed for Israeli-occupied Syrian territory where there was a minor border incident this morning.

Cairo Radio made its charge in a commentary and urged Arab countries and peoples to be on maximum alert. It cited reports from Beirut, Damascus and Tel Aviv about large Israeli military mobilization near the border and called the mobilization "thick and unusual."

"In light of all this, we can conclude that Israel, in agreement with the United States, is on its way to carry out large scale military operations against Lebanon and Syria," the radio said.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar also reported an increase of Israeli military patrols along the border and said Israeli workers had stopped picking apples at orchards near the border and that civilian cars had disappeared from the roads in that region.

In Beirut, the French-language newspaper l'Orient le Jour said the Syrian government had lifted restrictions against Palestine guerrilla operations against Israel and had even encouraged commandos based in Syria to escalate their attacks against Israel. It quoted unidentified Syrian officials in Damascus.

West German Ambassador-designate arriving in Egyptian affairs and denied Egyptian charges Germany was "participating directly in the implementation of a plan involving Israel and the United States."

Mrs. Meir, in an address to the Israeli Knesset (Parliament) called to discuss the guerrilla murder of 11 Israelis at the Munich Olympic Games, said the incident threatened Middle East peace efforts.

Stans says Democrats' charges 'pack of lies'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans has labeled a "scurrilous pack of lies" Democratic charges he diverted $114,000 in President Nixon's campaign funds to pay a squad of political spies and then destroyed the records.

The charges were lodged as the Democratic party named Stans, now Nixon's campaign finance chief, as one of several new codefendants in a civil damage suit stemming from the alleged bugging of the offices of the Democratic National Committee last June 17.

The Democrats said the five men arrested in the party headquarters with what police described as bugging gear in their possession were "paid secret agents" of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President (CRP). They charged that Stans provided the money for this "political espionage squad" and in fact "embarked upon a conspiracy" to form it.

The charges were to be filed formally today with the U.S. District Court here in the form of an amended complaint in the civil suit, lodged in June by former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien against the men caught in the headquarters. O'Brien also upped the party's demands for damages from $1 million to $3.2 million.

"Mr. O'Brien's allegations against me are a scurrilous pack of lies and he knows it," Stans said in a statement. "They amount to nothing more than a contemptible maneuver to use the court for his own base political purpose—and the American people will recognize it."

Similar harsh words came from Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign manager. He said O'Brien's allegations were nothing but "political libel and slander" and said he would slap a countersuit for malicious prosecution on the Democrats.

Sources close to the Democratic investigation said that O'Brien's was the other.

Crash victims' names released

TWIN FALLS — The names of the five victims in Monday's two-car accident south of Rogerson have been released.

Idaho State Police said they are Joseph Charles Chapman, 47, and his wife Georgia Gillis Chapman, 23, both Buhl; Gary William Smith, 21, and Gary L. Rose, 20, both Glenns Ferry; and Mary Griggs, 15, Buhl.

The Chapmans also had addresses from New York, North Carolina and Texas.

The accident occurred about 10 a.m. Monday. The car in which the five dead had been riding was headed north on Highway 93 about four miles south of Rogerson.

The vehicle apparently hit and off the shoulder on the right side of the road, swerved back onto and across the northbound lane into the path of a vehicle driven by Joseph Cogan, South Pasadena, Calif., in the southbound lane.

The resulting head-on collision tore the northbound vehicle apart throwing all five out of the car, killing them instantly.

Mr. and Mrs. Cogan both apparently hit the windshield of their car, seriously injuring both. They are listed in fair condition in Magic Valley Hospital today.

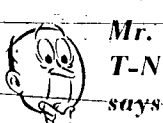

Cogan was pinned in his car by the steering wheel after the accident.

According to Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder, the highway pavement was apparently dry at the time of the accident.

Corder said when he arrived at the scene, the pavement under the cars and bodies was still dry.

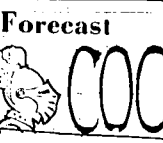

Blood samples have been sent to Boise to determine any alcohol content, Corder said.

The bodies of Smith and Rose are at Smith Funeral Home in Glenns Ferry. The bodies of the other three are at White Mortuary, Twin Falls.

Gooding TB unit use eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board today called for negotiations with the South Central Health District for lease of a portion of the tuberculosis hospital in Gooding.

But the negotiations would include that the health district would assume the responsibilities for the maintenance of the building which is now costing the state some $40,000 a year to maintain.

The hospital was phased out years ago and the state has been trying to decide what to do with the facility.

Gordon Trombley, state land commissioner, said the Idaho Land Department's recommendation would be to not lease any portion of the building until the board decides what it is going to do with the facility.

He said there would be additional cost of heating the facility if a portion were leased.

UN chief asks end to terror

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim expressed hope Tuesday the General Assembly would take steps to prevent further acts of terrorism and violence against civilians.

"I am deeply worried about these acts," Waldheim said. "It is for this reason that I have decided to put this question on the agenda of the assembly's upcoming 27th session."

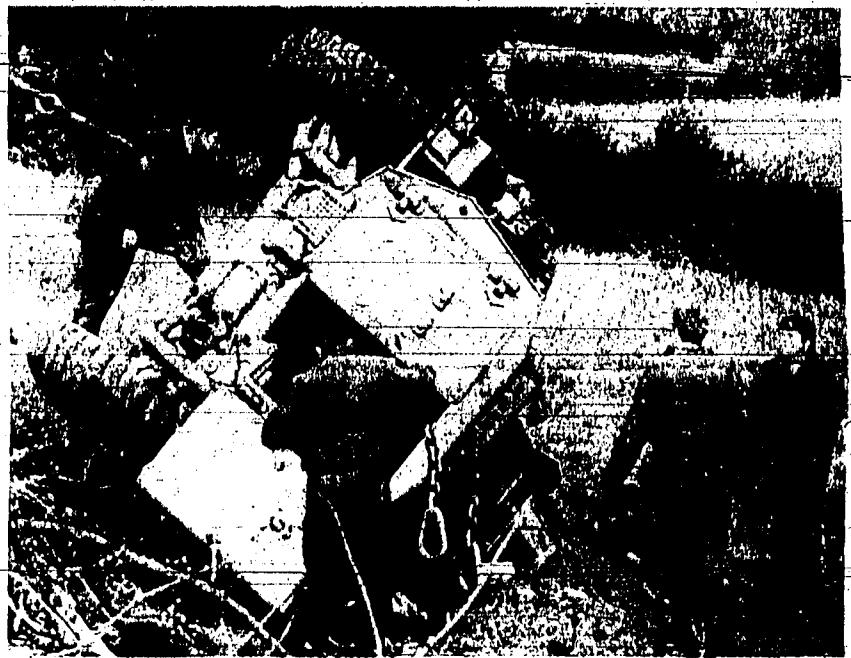

In reply to questions at a news conference he said the United Nations "cannot be a mute spectator" and would have to take adequate measures to forestall further terrorism and violence.

He said that not only innocent civilians but also a number of diplomats have been victims of such terrorism.

Object's identity said 'no meteor'

TWIN FALLS — The "meteor" that flew over Twin Falls last month wasn't a meteor, according to the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization.

It also wasn't a man-made object, the research group said in a statement today. As a result, the object, widely reported from southern California to the northernmost part of the United States, has an identity "unknown" to the group.

Allen Benz, Twin Falls, a local spokesman for the research group, said Tuesday the object was "neither a meteor nor a man-made object."

He said the conclusion was reached on the basis of several factors, including "the object's behavior, eyewitness reports and a statement from the North American Air Defense Command that no missiles, re-entering satellites or other space vehicles were due to pass over this area at the time of the incident."

Benz said the organization was listing the object as "unknown."

FAA to build TF air tower

TWIN FALLS — The Federal Aviation Administration has decided to construct an air control tower at the Twin Falls City County Airport.

Seattle FAA officials said today preliminary funding has been approved to send an engineering team to Twin Falls to develop plans for the proposed tower.

The tower's eventual construction and operation would be paid for entirely by the FAA, according to R. E. Wallblinger, chief of the FAA Seattle facilities establishment branch.

The initial funding, $10,000, will pay for engineering to determine tower site and size.

Public Affairs Officer Cliff Cornick of the Seattle PFA said today construction of the tower is part of the FAA's program and only unforeseen cutbacks in national funding would interfere with the tower's completion.

According to Wallblinger, the tower would not include radar facilities. It would primarily be a radio-communications center, he said.

He said typical tower height for an airport such as Twin Falls is between 40 and 70 feet. He said height would be determined by its location.

According to Bill Powell, Twin Falls City County Airport Commission chairman, the decision to build the tower was prompted by rising passenger loadings at the airport.

FAA officials said the tower would be manned 16 hours a day by FAA crews varying from one to up to four persons.

Henry, Reds talk

MOSCOW (UPI)—President Nixon's chief adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, continued talks with Soviet leaders today and added to his travel agenda conferences with British and French officials en route home the latter part of this week.

Kissinger "will have" touched bases with America's three major European allies either before or after the Moscow visit. En route to Moscow, he met with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt in Munich.

In Washington, the White House hinted that while in Paris Friday to confer with French President Georges Pompidou, Kissinger might have another in his series of meetings with Le Duc Tho, chief North Vietnamese negotiator at the Paris peace talks.

(The left open that possibility from his arrival back in Paris from Hanoi Monday, saying "you will have an answer in a few days time" on any such plans, Kissinger and Tho have had 16 private meetings so far.)

Kissinger will stop in London for sessions Thursday and early Friday with British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home. He then plans to go to Paris, with departure for Washington late Friday or early Saturday after seeing Pompidou—and possibly Le Duc Tho.

Moderately strong Gem economy seen

BOISE — Idaho's economic outlook is one of "moderate economic strength" for the next two to three months, according to the Idaho Department of Employment monthly bulletin.

A series of five leading economic indicators showed an increase over a year ago with three indicators rising during the period and the other two showing drops.

The 15 coinciding and selected indicators also showed an overall increase.

"This double upturn," according to the department of Employment's monthly bulletin, "signals moderate economic strength for the next two to three months, barring surprises like strikes, election news, major foreign reversals or sudden shifts in key national economic policies."

Although six month moving averages for residential and non-residential building permits both show a continuing increase, the state publication reports "it is probable that the building boom has peaked."

The moving averages take in figures to May.

Adjusted totals for residential building permits for July, however, shows an increase in total permit dollar values, while the adjusted figure for the non-residential permits shows a decline.

"Compared with the corresponding month of a year ago, non-residential building permits are running just 0.4 percent lower but since last month they fell 79.9 percent, more than any other of the Idaho indicators."

But, the report cautions, the increased activity of mobile home and off-site construction activity makes analysis of the building economic picture difficult.

"Statistics on this newer kind of building activity are needed."

Changing housing tastes coupled with new construction on methods may keep the newer kinds of building in high demand while some kinds of traditional building may slow as it has been customary for traditional housing to do in periods of national economic recovery.

The report also notes that mobile homes are reported statistically nationally as transportation equipment.

The report also states that monthly non-agricultural job openings rose 29 per cent, placements for the positions fell 21.2 per cent. Both figures are down over the totals of a year ago.

Unemployment statewide is improved over figures from a year ago and last month. The July rate of jobless in Idaho is 5.3 per cent.

Teachers return to work

By United Press International
Teachers returned to work today in four cities in Illinois and Rhode Island, but elsewhere the school-strike picture was bleak. A bid for a stopgap settlement in Philadelphia failed, and no other progress was reported.

Teacher strikes in five states and a busing dispute in Nevada were excluding some 500,000 students from public classrooms for the second successive week.

Pennsylvania was especially hard hit, with strikes in Philadelphia and 16 other districts closing schoolhouse doors to more than 300,000 children. In addition, strikes at two community colleges affected more than 20,000 students. Other states where strikes had closed schools in one or more districts were Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York and Illinois.

In Philadelphia, a union spokesman said Monday that teachers had offered to resume work under their expired contract. The Board of Education said that if they did so they would have to work a slightly longer day—the requirement which caused the strike in the first place.

Some 285,000 students were affected by the Philadelphia walkout and another 30,000 youngsters in the suburbs were without classes because of strikes in three other districts. In Rhode Island, teachers in Providence and Newport were returning to work under compromise contracts, but five other school districts in the state were still at a standstill.

Agreements in the two cities opened doors to more than 30,000 students—25,000 in Providence and 6,500 in Newport. Schools in both places had been scheduled to open last Wednesday.

Soldiers abducted in Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Army private abducted four other American soldiers today at a base 14 miles from Saigon and forced them to drive to the capital before he was captured and the hostages freed, the U.S. command reported. A military policeman was slightly wounded by gunfire in the capture.

A command spokesman said a man identified as Pvt. Lawrence R. Tanner, 19, Orange, Tex., reportedly forced the four hostages to drive with him in a jeep to Saigon after he "had told people he was intent on leaving the country."

Tanner, armed with an M16 rifle and a pistol, was arrested in Saigon after he had freed three of the hostages but reportedly forced a fourth, to accompany him to a house near the Army's 3rd Field Hospital just outside Tan Son Nhut airbase. One military policeman was slightly wounded by gunfire in the attempt to capture Tanner, a spokesman said.

Military sources said Tanner was a witness for an upcoming murder trial at the Long Binh post, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, but that he was not facing any charges in connection with the murder.

"I don't get the connection, but he keeps harping on your visit to Munich."

Eric Hatch

TWIN FALLS — Eric Wade Hatch, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Rulon Fred Hatch, Twin Falls, died at birth Monday morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one brother, Orson Fred Hatch and one sister, Trina Sue Hatch, both Twin Falls; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Orson Fred Hatch, Sausalito, Calif.; Edgar Ballard, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Vandella Armstrong, South Beloit, Ill.; and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Beth Hatch, Pangutich, Utah.

Graveside services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Twin Falls Cemetery with Bishop Francis D. Scherer officiating. Twin Falls Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

A. Anthon

DEULO — Arthur Anthon, 74, Deulo farmer, died Sunday at Cassia Memorial Hospital following a long illness.

He was born March 29, 1898, at Springville, Utah. He came to the Burley-Deulo area 60 years ago from American Fork, Utah. In April, 1934, he married Susie M. Plotts at Burley.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Royce Anthon and Clyde Anthon, all Deulo; two daughters, Mrs. Fred (Joyce) Preston, Deulo; and Mrs. Lewis (Betty) Walker, Salt Lake City; two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Kraus, Van Nuys, Calif., and Mrs. Edge Jensen, Burley; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the McCulloch Funeral Home Chapel, Burley, with Bishop Leo Hurst officiating. Concluding rites will be in the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home this afternoon and evening and Wednesday prior to services.

Ruby Smith

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Ruby Elizabeth Smith, 91, Twin Falls, died at a local rest home Monday morning after a long illness.

She was born Nov. 22, 1881, at Warsaw, Ind., and had been a resident of Idaho since 1934.

She was a past worthy matron of the Edna Hedges chapter of Order of Eastern Star, Billings, Mont.; past president of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic; was a rural mail carrier for the U.S. Post Office during World War II, and for 30 years was a rural mail subscription solicitor for the Times-News.

Mrs. Smith was a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Al (Virginia) Westergren, Twin Falls; one grandson, Knute Westergren, Paris, France, and three great-grandchildren.

Graveside funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Twin Falls Cemetery by Rev. Ray Jones. Friends may call at White Mortuary this evening and Wednesday morning until 10:30 a.m.

The family suggests memorials to the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert.

Candidates duel for youth vote

By United Press International
President Nixon and Sen. George S. McGovern continue to duel for the youth vote with McGovern winning the endorsement of a student association and Nixon supporters setting a goal of putting 500,000 "under 30" campaign volunteers to work in 30 days.

McGovern received the endorsement Monday of the 80,000-member Student National Education Association (SNEA), an organization of college students preparing for careers in education.

The organization's president, Thomas D. Creighton, 22, of Lincoln, Neb., said McGovern was "the first man to speak out publicly in the U.S. Senate against the Vietnam war and its atrocities." He also praised the Democratic candidate for championing the participation of youth in politics.

The endorsement came in the wake of a Gallup poll which showed Nixon leading McGovern 61 per cent to 39 per cent among young voters. Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., referred to that poll Monday when he announced the Republican campaign organization had lined up 300,000 "under 30" volunteers to work for Nixon's re-election and would attempt to recruit 200,000 more within a month.

Brook criticized a McGovern statement Sunday at Espanola, N.M., that "any young person or any man or woman who works with his hands for a living who is for Mr. Nixon is too confused to know which end is up." The Tennessee senator said the statement was an example of McGovern's "arrogant refusal to believe young people are capable of making up their minds."

McGovern was joined by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., today for a series of campaign rallies in the big industrial cities of the Midwest. The appearances included Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

Nixon planned to work at the White House, scheduling a breakfast with cabinet and Republican congressional leaders and a late afternoon reception for GOP national committee members, state Republican chairmen, and chairmen of state committees of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

In other political developments:

—In a campaign appearance at Minneapolis Monday night, McGovern predicted flatly he would win Nov. 7 despite Nixon's big lead in the polls.

—At Chicago, Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications, said he believed the "gap will narrow" in the election and that Nixon would not carry all 50 states. Committee for the Re-election of the President.

British troops guard hospital

BELFAST (UPI)—British troops guarded Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital today against threatened attacks on the huge medical complex by the extremist Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Northern Ireland's two major loyalist organizations joined forces under former Home Affairs Minister William Craig to press for the restoration of Protestant rule over the province.

A statement issued Monday night by the Provisionals said unless troops were withdrawn from the 1,200-bed hospital "any type of attack on the hospital is now possible."

"The hospital has now entered the character of a fortress and is no longer definable as a neutralized zone," the statement said. "Resulting casualties will be the responsibility of the British."

About 200 troops have been stationed in the 50-acre complex for several months. The army said the troops are there mainly to protect the hospital and its patients, including wounded soldiers, against extremist attacks.

The Provisionals said the troops use the hospital as a base for operations against the nearby Roman Catholic Falls Road district.

Young People Are Older Now

Sargent Shriver's campaign emphasis has been on involving young people. What will that take?

courting young voters, but young people are older than they used to be. Yet inconsistent state laws confound the young traveler.

And even if he or she stays put, "how old is old enough?" is a moot question. Here's a girl writing to me from Detroit. Miss R.S. says she's 14. When her parents take her to the drive-in theater, they have to buy an adult ticket for her. But when the movie being shown is X-rated, the law suddenly considers her a child again.

We lie, deny, deny: the number of candles on the cake seeking to stop the clock. A politician seeks the "youth vote" by trying to be one of them. But despite a girdled middle, transplanted hair, facelifted face and an artificial case of acne — he earns more pily than respect from those he courts.

She says she does not particularly want to go to the X-rated show; she just wants to know which she is. "Am I an adult or not?" she asks.

We don't want to act our age or be our age. We think we want to be young again. But if old is less old than it used to be, young people are infinitely more frustrated than we; they don't know when they're green or when they're ripe.

Miss R.S., I don't know. But I share what should be your further indignation at the absurdity of that rating system. What the system says is that it's a dirty movie until you become X-rated. After that it is not dirt any more?

The schoolmaster says high schoolers are too old to wear their hair like George Washington, yet too young to wear a beard like Lincoln; what is this!

Oh, come now, if it's "dirty" it's "dirty" however old or young you are.

St. Louis psychiatrist, Dr. E. James Anthony, says, "Adolescents are becoming old younger, aged by pressure."

In most states you are old enough to vote while you're still too young to drink.

He means the pressure of Dad staggering home drunk and telling Junior not to smoke pot when there's not all that difference.

You're old enough to play full fare on public transportation, while you're still too young to drive a car.

He means the pressure of legal and social contradictions about when is it time to start work, to drive, to smoke, to drink, to marry.

You're old enough to go to war before you're old enough to go to a hippy movie without your parents.

And what do you say when Dad looks out from under his toupee to demand: "Why don't you act your age?"

You and I have been looking down from the sanctimonious anonymity of our years while trying to subtract from them with every lotion, potion and device known to cosmetic science.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Loopholes Benefit

As candidates take to the stump to advocate their causes, much is being said about the great virtue of closing "tax-loopholes." It is a political code phrase that raises two visions in our minds.

We first think of loopholes as the traditional tax refuge of big business, another favorite political target. Second, we believe that tax loopholes are an advantage that accrues to somebody else, not us.

In reality, with the possible exception of the very poor, the tax loopholes that are being discussed touch nearly every citizen of the United States of America.

For example, the best estimates are that if all income tax deductions for big business were eliminated, the total increased revenue would be something less than $25 billion. The cost in lost jobs would be many times that amount.

This is another way of saying that in the end it is the wage earner, the butcher and the baker, who would suffer the most if the so-called loopholes are closed. He is the biggest source of income to all governments.

This is brought home by the best definition to date of the tax advantages that do exist — the bills introduced in Congress by Sen. Mike Mansfield and Rep. Wilbur Mills.

By 1974, the Mansfield-Mills bills would eliminate as income tax deductions such items as insurance that employers purchase for employees, the exclusion of the $5,000-employee-death-benefit-from taxes, and $100 dividend exemptions granted individuals, favored tax treatment of employee stock options, tax exemption of credit union and mutual insurance funds and deductions for farm losses.

By 1976 the measures would prohibit income tax deductions of sick pay, interest and insurance payments, soil and water conservation expenditures, land clearance, research and experimental spending.

By 1976 the measures would remove the last of the deductions that most of us take for granted each April 15, including those for retirement income credit, rental value of parsonages, gains in sales by persons over 65, charitable contributions, medical expenses, scholarship grants and contributions to political candidates.

In short, each one of us is himself a major tax loophole. To eliminate the loopholes would drastically alter charities, education, city revenues, home buying, health spending, food prices, household purchases, our jobs and our very life styles.

This is hardly the picture the politicians paint when they speak confidently of closing tax loopholes.

Good Yesterdays

CHICAGO — It's the moving season, and moving can be a chore. For me, helping here to close a family home held more than half a century. It is not so much a labor as a painful leaving-taking from an era of warm, bright living.

The era slips away as books acquired in the early 1900s are pulled from the shelves, as letters from 1890 are found in dresser drawers, as hundreds of photographs tumble out of envelopes, as I find the ticket stub from my first football game ages ago, and my father's grades on a scholarship test, and my mother's notes about the night we came to this house in October, 1919.

We are tearing all these things from their accustomed places, and packing up, because my mother died a little while ago. She was 89 and had outlived my father by 21 years.

As we thrust the past into cardboard boxes, as we plant shipping labels on sofas and chairs and tables we know as we do our own faces, what are we leaving?

First, a huge brick house with a red-tiled roof, a handsome bay window, a broad, high-ceilinged rooms, a spacious yard more richly green by far than when we came 53 years ago.

It is truly a family fortress, a great rock unscarred by the battering times of recent times. It is the visible proof that we had a stable setting in which to grow and get ready for the world.

I look at a corner of the oak-paneled dining room and remember that for 52 unbroken years enormous Christmas trees stood there, loaded down with hundreds and hundreds of ornaments.

The tree, lasting sometimes for six weeks, was the centerpiece in a long ceremony which was, for us, an annual celebration of life. Relatives, neighbors and friends trooped in to gaze at it.

We in this large family who returned year after year to sustain this ceremony with our fullest energies could be charged, I suppose, with trying to reclaim the past, with taking refuge in the old citadel safe from the chaos of this age.

True, perhaps, in a measure. But here the past was also the present. We never allowed the skin to be broken. We came not because it was safe but because life here was still warm and good.

Looking at the long dining room table, I can call up memories easily of my father, a hard-charging lawyer, teasing my sisters, of my sensitive mother trying to balance half a dozen diets and keep a show of order amid the banter and laughter.

birthdays and other special times, that table was a festive thing to see — brightened by flowers, well-appointed with distinctive coffee urns and other table pieces, laden with food. What went on here at such times was not lavish. It was just great good fun, which few who came ever forgot.

I'm sitting now in my father's upstairs study, where built-in shelves once held hundreds of law books. On the floor, ready to be moved, are many piles of old 78 RPM phonograph records — reminders of the nearly continuous jazz festivals that enlivened the place in earlier times.

Mail Service

WASHINGTON — Qualified sources within the Postal Service have volunteered some specifics to Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen's recent disclosure that some groups of postal employees in effect have been sabotaging mail handling and delivery.

Klassen, in announcing there would be no need to seek a projected increase of one cent an ounce in first-class mail rates next year, merely said that "many people" were opposed to a 33,000 reduction in personnel since a hiring freeze and institution of an early retirement program went into effect last March.

"There are areas where we've got troubles," said Klassen. "We think we know where they are." They do indeed. The trouble spots, according to Service sources, are New York, Washington, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles. Some slowdowns and other subtle means — of sabotage — also reportedly have been uncovered in smaller cities, but in the words of one official, "The bomb throwers are in those five cities mentioned."

The result, as Klassen himself finally admitted, has been a further deterioration in mail service. He has signalled out as special problems parcel post and special delivery, remarking of the latter service "It's been really a disgrace." None of this comes as news to even the most casual mail user, who has had to put up with less frequent pickups at street mail boxes and says a prayer every time he entrusts a communication to Klassen's outfit.

Nevertheless, Klassen and his aides deserve a salute for making a start. Manpower costs account for about 85 per cent of the Postal Service's budget, and it has taken guts unusual in a government agency to lop off some of the deadheads. There is further good news in Klassen's announcement that the hiring freeze would continue indefinitely in most areas.

But Klassen still faces an outrageous situation in attempting to effect further economies in personnel costs. In one of the more scandalous victories for collective bargaining, postal workers have forced inclusion in their contracts a clause that prohibits layoffs. The clause says any lazy, drunken or dope-addicted bum is safe on the payroll no matter how monstrously he contributes to inefficiency unless he chooses to retire.

Klassen is blameless here. The no-layoff bit was inserted into postal contracts at the demand of members of Congress, who live in dread and daily fear of the political muscle of postal workers, who now number 667,000 bodies even after recent staff reductions.

Postal-union negotiators need not negotiate, they merely twist Congressional arms.

That, presumably, is what they will do in July 1973. Union leaders already have given notice they'll be asking for more dough, plus added fringe benefits, next year, and if they get what they want from a pusillanimous Congress the harassed mail user can expect another boost in postal rates.

If and when that happens, you can kiss goodbye to government mails as a viable means of communicating in writing. Many private companies already are delivering their own mail, and in Washington the electric company last April began hand-delivering its bills.

The United Parcel Service now handles as many, and probably more, packages than the Postal Service. But thanks to their pals on Capitol Hill, union barons will continue to dine on assorted goodies under glass at such posh eateries as Sans Souci and Rive Gauche. That's their name for the game.

Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After a hysterectomy — I was given hormones but instructed to omit them five days each month.

However, I was completely miserable for those five days and for several more days after resuming medication. I urged my doctor to allow me to take them even on those five days. He is reluctant to do so but does not say why. — Mrs. M. L. P.

The reason you are given the hormones is that, obviously, your ovaries were removed along with the hysterectomy. With the ovaries no longer present, and therefore no longer furnishing you with their accustomed supply of hormones, you began experiencing the anxiety and jitteriness that so often accompany menopause.

So your doctor gave you hormones to replace those the ovaries no longer were producing.

It is the usual practice each month to discontinue hormones for five days (or for a week) because that most closely approaches the natural pattern of release of hormones, and thus avoids the risk of giving you more than your body requires.

You may not be physically in need of the hormones for those few days, any more than you were before the operation. But it is possible that you have become psychologically dependent on the hormones, which may be the real reason for being miserable.

Perhaps a mild tranquilizer on those "off" days will be enough to make you comfortable. Please try that. In other instances, a reduced dose of hormones (say half) may suffice on the "off" days and still more or less follow the natural cyclic hormone pattern. You might discuss those two possibilities with your physician.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having a vaginal discharge and am worried about the possibility of venereal disease. I am not able to go to the family doctor because then my parents would find out. Are there any clinics in my area? — N. N.

Two answers to this question — which is an increasingly frequent one. 1. Quite a few states now have special laws allowing physicians to treat young people for venereal disease without getting the permission of parents, so maybe you can go to your family doctor after all.

2. I can't possibly keep track of just where all the V. D. clinics are located in the various communities in which this column appears, but you can find out for yourself very easily. Just telephone the department of health and ask.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true you can't get pregnant the first time you have sexual intercourse? — P. A.

I'm getting tired of answering this question. NO, it is NOT true.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

No Pollution

Anyone who has spent any time at all in the vicinity of a paper mill does not need the current concern for the ecology to be made forcefully aware of pollution as a problem.

The pulp and paper industry long had a special reputation as a polluter par excellence. The indescribable stench given off in the paper-making process, depending upon variations of local geography and prevailing winds, might also be inescapable at distances up to 30 miles from a plant. Sludge spewed into waterways could equal the total waste product of a major city.

But guess which industry is now earning itself a very large "E" for pollution-control efforts?

Paper is "years ahead" of other major manufacturing areas in cleaning up after itself, reports the Council on Economic Priorities.

Most firms in the industry have had marked success in cleaning up plants and reputations in just a few short years through new equipment and production practices, at no little cost to themselves — an estimated $840 million — but without significant dislocation of production or employment.

If it continues to score gains at the rate of the past two years, the industry could achieve virtually 100 per cent effective pollution control by 1975, according to the council, a nonprofit organization monitoring the social impact of business and industrial activities.

Paper is, of course, still minor league compared with such industries as steel, power production and mining, all massive waste contributors. But its experience is evidence that the pollution problem does yield to effort — and expenditure.

Given this one industry's image only a few years ago for, in the council's words, "... foul-smelling mills belching gases and discharging sludge into streams..." who would have believed it?

Revived Weapon

"This is Al Capone revisited." With these words, Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides described Washington's efforts to put major drug distributors and pushers out of business on income tax charges.

Although efforts to date to jail suspected narcotics kingpins on tax charges have resulted in only nine convictions, the potential exists for widespread arrests and harassment.

Rossides said intensive tax return scrutiny is underway on 919 individuals suspected of being major drug smugglers and 789 others suspected of being pushers. In addition to the nine convicted on criminal tax charges, 22 others are under indictment and prosecution has been recommended in 49 other cases.

More than three decades have passed since the income tax laws were used to jail Chicago's notorious mobster, Al Capone. Although the arch villain was widely involved in all facets of crime, including murder, the courts could not or would not touch him on those grounds.

Only failure to account for his income properly under the tax laws eventually sent Capone to prison.

Because of the increased latitude given Internal Revenue Service agents today in the form of much more stringent tax laws, it should prove a relatively simple task to take similar action against those who deal illicitly in the multi-million-dollar narcotics traffic.

This is one time the average taxpayer will find himself rooting for the IRS.

Water meet set at SV

SUN VALLEY—Members of the Idaho Water Resource Board will meet Friday in Sun Valley to consider proposed water legislation and other pending issues.

The board meeting, open to all interested persons, will be held in the Sun Valley Inn. Items on the board's September agenda include proposed establishment of a Legislative Water Resources Committee, legislation for setting minimum stream flow requirements, and possible use of Endowment Funds for water resource project loans. These items are being considered for presentation to the 1973 legislature.

Comments have been received from the Citizens Water Advisory Committee concerning the proposed minimum flow legislation.

Other items on the board's agenda include:

A report on research on regional economic impact of water projects by William Botach, water resource ecologist for the board; Wood

River Basin Investigation by Maj. Carlos W. Hickman, U.S. Corps of Engineers; Snake River Islands Wilderness proposal of the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife; and a proposed cooperative agreement with the U.S. Geological Survey for services in monitoring the Snake River Plain Recharge Project Study Area, and assistance in determining groundwater conditions in the proposed project area.

Robert R. Lee, director, will present the 1973 proposed budget and give a review of the status of the Swan Falls-Guffey project.

Board chairman John F. Streiff, Lewiston, will report on a recent Columbia River and tributaries study meeting and board member Ferris Kunz, Montpelier, will review the Bear River negotiations between Idaho, Utah and Wyoming.

Chairman Streiff said the meeting will open at 9 a.m. and continue until all business has been covered.

Ban asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., called Monday for a ban on domestic use of the herbicide 2, 4, 5-T, saying "It is clearly a dangerous gamble" to do otherwise. In a letter to William D. Ruckelshaus, director of the Environmental Protection Agency, Nelson said 2, 4, 5-T contains dioxin, "the most toxic substance ever synthetically produced."

New guarantee set

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. today announced a new guarantee program on repairs—parts and labor—that the No. 2 automaker says is unique in the auto industry.

Ford said it and some 6,300 Ford and Mercury dealers will guarantee all parts and repair on all cars, no matter what the model years, for 90 days or 4,000 miles. Most automakers now guarantee parts for that period but leave the matter of labor up to dealers to negotiate with customers.

A lightning bolt can be three miles long.

Banking privacy upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court ruled Monday that a new law allowing the government to check the banking records of individuals violates the right to privacy and is unconstitutional.

The U.S. District Court said the Bank Secrecy Act, which was passed in 1970 and went into effect this year, insofar as it gives the government a blanket power to examine records of individuals "is such an invasion of a citizen's right to privacy as amounts to an unreasonable search within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment."

The provisions of the law requiring banks to maintain microfilm records of all transactions and report to the government on large international money transactions were upheld.

But, the court said, the law is unconstitutional insofar as it authorizes the government "to require virtually unlimited reporting from banks and their customers of domestic financial transactions as a surveillance device for the alleged purpose of discovering possible, but unspecified, wrongdoing among the citizenry."

The court said the relationship between the requirements of this law and the likelihood of uncovering wrongdoing was "far-fetched."

Attorneys appointed to panel

TWIN FALLS — The co-chairmen of the Idaho's Lawyers Committee for the Re-election of the President announced Monday the names of nine attorneys who will serve as regional committee chairmen.

They include John T. Hawley and Eugene C. Thomas, Boise; Richard K. Smith, Burley; E. L. Miller, Coeur d'Alene; R. Vern Kidwell, Idaho Falls; Jerry V. Smith, Lewiston; James E. Schiller, Nampa; Archie W. Service, Pocatello and Alden Hull, Wallace.

Making the announcement were Mary Adams, Idaho Falls and Edward L. Benoit, Twin Falls, committee co-chairmen.

Gem oilmen slate meet

TWIN FALLS (UPI) — The 12th annual meeting of the Idaho Petroleum Council is scheduled Thursday in Boise with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus to give the welcoming address.

Council Chairman J. G. Tippet, Twin Falls, said the event at Boise's Rodeway Inn will attract oil men and women from throughout the Gem State.

On the agenda will be installation of new council officers and an address on "Energy and You" by Dr. Wilson E. Laird, director of the Committee on Exploration, American Petroleum Institute, Washington, D.C.

Corona's family leads protest at trial

Corona's lawyer charges state attempts to prejudice defendant

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Defense attorney Richard Hawk told prospective jurors in the Juan V. Corona mass murder case Monday the state would attempt to prejudice the defendant by "flashing around gory pictures" of the 25 victims.

"These two men are going to do their level best to show you brains dripping out of skulls," Hawk declared as Corona's trial opened in a small crowded courtroom carefully wrapped in a blanket of tight security.

The verbal blast was one of many Hawk delivered against Sutter County District Attorney G. Dave Tejn and his assistant, Bart Williams, as the jury selection began in a trial expected to last four to six months.

Corona, a Mexican-born 38-year-old farm-labor contractor, is accused of committing the machete slayings in the spring of 1971 and burying the victims—all itinerant farm workers—in orchard graves near Yuba City, Calif.

"Despite repeated admonitions from Superior Court Judge Richard Patton, Hawk used the opening day to unload a barrage of criticism against the prosecution.

Corona's family, including his wife, Gloria, and his elderly mother, Candida, were in attendance and shouted words of encouragement to Corona as he entered the courtroom clad in a blue suit and black shoes, with black wavy hair nearly combed.

The defendant's sister, Feliciano Corona De Dancel, was arrested outside the courtroom on a charge of blocking its entrance. Officers said the woman sat down in front of a metal detector through which everyone had to pass to enter the courtroom.

Mrs. De Dancel later was freed on $250 bail posted by her brother, Pedro, and ordered to appear in Justice Court on the misdemeanor charge Sept. 19.

During the noon break, Corona's family knelt on the grass outside the courtroom and recited the rosary. They also joined about 20 other persons carrying signs demanding "Justice for Juan Corona" and criticizing the prosecution.

"There is no American who prefers the welfare ethic," said Shriver, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, "except maybe Mr. (Gov. Ronald) Reagan who prefers it because he doesn't pay any taxes. He lets all you work for him."

Shriver, a slashing attack against Nixon with occasional jabs at the California Republican governor in capping a whirlwind tour Monday night—Reagan, a millionaire former actor, paid no state income tax in 1971.

Off ballot

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI)—The American Independent Party has lost its appeal to get on the Rhode Island ballot in November.

The party's presidential candidate, Rep. John Schmitz of California, failed to collect enough signatures to qualify for the ballot.

The party's forces had appealed the disqualification of a number of signatures to the state Board of Elections.

Sierra Club asks land transfer halt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Sierra Club is asking Congress to step in and void an agreement which would transfer millions of acres of federal land in Alaska to that state's government.

Dr. Edgar Wayburn, speaking for the conservationist club Monday, said the land is needed for national park expansions and its transfer to the state would be a "bad deal for the American people."

He asked Congress to act before title is transferred to the state.

The agreement results from a suit Alaska filed against the federal government. The suit contended Interior Secretary Rogers Morton exceeded his authority in withdrawing 42 million acres from the 77 million acres the state asked.

As part of the agreement settling that suit, the Interior Department has "relinquished its claim to a substantial part of the acreage in dispute and agrees to make certain key areas available for state selection," Wayburn said.

"The portals to two spectacular national parks in the making have been given away to the state before Congress even has a chance to study the proposals," the club asserted. Those "portals" are the lower Alutian Valley and the Lake Chelan area.

Wayburn said the valley was needed as an entrance to the Arctic National Park and the Lake Chelan area should be added to Mt. McKinley National Park.

In a statement, the club said "the nation will come to regret these tragic losses, just the way it did in giving Yosemite Valley to the State of California in the 10th century."

"Eventually, it will also have to buy the lands back at great loss if they are sacrificed to expediency."

Mac, Teddy hit theme

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern, with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy campaigning at his side, today hammered away at his peace-and-economics theme in the big cities of the Midwest.

McGovern and Kennedy were to campaign together at rallies in Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland during a hectic day scheduled to have them on the go for 15 hours even in the unlikely event that everything runs on time.

Kennedy joined the McGovern cavalcade Monday night in Minneapolis, and promptly got standing ovations from essential the same speech for which McGovern has been receiving polite applause.

"I stand with George McGovern for the rights of all the people, and we want all of you beside us," Kennedy said.

In a statement prepared for a noontime rally in the heart of the Chicago Loop, McGovern accused President Nixon of using the totalitarian logic of George Orwell's novel "1984."

"For three years they have told us that war is peace," McGovern said. "For a year, they have told us that a recession is the new prosperity. Now they tell us that a value-added tax is not a tax."

This was a reference to an administration pledge that if Nixon is re-elected there will be no new taxes although a value-added levy—a sort of national sales tax—may be proposed to replace some revenue now raised by property taxes.

"But it looks like a tax, it sounds like a tax, and it will certainly feel like a tax to the families of this country when it costs each of them at least $200 a year," McGovern said.

A standing-room-only crowd of more than 10,000 crammed into the 8,500-seat Minneapolis Auditorium to see the first joint McGovern-Kennedy appearance since the South Dakota senator won the nomination. The mostly youthful audience sat in the aisles and stood along the walls after all the seats were filled. At least another 2,000 persons were turned away.

"I used to be just one of 100 doing my job in the United States Senate," Kennedy quipped. "Then came time for the selection of the vice presidential candidate. It just shows what it's like to have a famous brother-in-law."

An aide said Kennedy plans to campaign on behalf of McGovern and Democratic candidates for the Senate and House most weekends and daily in the last two weeks before the election. He will appear jointly with McGovern Wednesday and Thursday, but most of his other appearances will be separate from the nominee.

Shriver blasts Nixon charges

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Sargent Shriver said Monday President Nixon issued one of the most "sacriligious and inaccurate statements in the history of the country" when he accused Sen. George McGovern of advocating a welfare ethic.

"There is no American who prefers the welfare ethic," said Shriver, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, "except maybe Mr. (Gov. Ronald) Reagan who prefers it because he doesn't pay any taxes. He lets all you work for him."

Primaries set across nation

By United Press International

Voters in eight states will decide among a variety of candidates today vying for Democratic and Republican nominations for Governor and Congress.

The primary elections, being conducted just eight weeks before the general election, were under way in Colorado, South Carolina, Minnesota, Utah, Wisconsin, Arizona, New Hampshire and Vermont.

In addition, voters in Rhode Island and Florida were deciding primary contests, but with no major nominations at stake.

The closest race was expected in Colorado, where Democratic Rep. Wayne Aspinall, chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, was attempting to win his 13th term. His opponent, attorney Alan Merson, was given a strong chance by party officials to score an upset.

Colorado Democrats were also nominating a candidate to oppose Republican Sen. Gordon Allott, with former State Rep. Floyd Haskell, favored over State Sen. Tony Vollock.

In South Carolina, Rep. John L. McMillan, 74, was expected to win a Democratic runoff race with State Rep. John W. Jenrette. McMillan, chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee, is seeking his 18th term.

In Minnesota, an incumbent expected to have little trouble in gaining a spot on the November ballot was Sen. Walter F. Mondale. He is seeking the Democratic Farm Labor Party's nomination against three opponents. Phil Hansen, a Lutheran minister, is running unopposed on the Republican ticket. The state is also holding four congressional primaries.

In Utah, two John Birch Society members were heavy underdogs in their bids to win GOP congressional nominations. Joseph Ferguson was expected to lose to Robert Waltheus, a former aide to Sen. Wallace Bennett, while Mark E. Anderson was given little chance of defeating incumbent Rep. Sherman P. Lloyd.

In Wisconsin, two incumbent

Republicans with a combined total of 52 years of congressional service were being challenged by a pair of political newcomers. Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, who has served 28 years in the House, was up against David Connor, a lumber executive. Rep. Glenn Davis, first elected in 1947, was trying to beat back the challenge of Verne Reed, a department store executive.

Three Arizona congressmen—Democrat Morris Udall and Republicans Sam Steiger and John Rhodes—2343 expected to easily gain renomination. Voters in the neighboring states of New Hampshire and Vermont were deciding gubernatorial races.

In New Hampshire, two-term Republican incumbent Walter Peterson and Democratic businessman Roger J. Crowley were expected to win their nominations by small margins. The two met in 1970. Former Gov. Wesley Powell was favored to capture the GOP Senate nomination and the right to run against Democratic incumbent Thomas J. McIntyre, who was unopposed.

In Vermont, Luther S. Hackett, a former Social Welfare Board chairman, was a slight favorite over Attorney General James M. Jeffords in the GOP gubernatorial battle. On the Democratic side, Thomas S. Salmon was unopposed.

In 1922, the Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops voted 38 to 27 to take the word "obey" out of the marriage ceremony.

In 1953, in a social event of the year in Newport, R.I., a young member of the U.S. Senate, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, married Miss Jacqueline Lee Bouvier.

In 1966, America's Gemini 2 docked with an Agena space vehicle.

A thought for the day: American novelist Washington Irving said, "A woman's whole life is a history of affections."

AF general denies disobeying orders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. John D. Lavelle denied during a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday that he disobeyed orders from higher ups in ordering air raids on North Vietnam last year.

Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, who initiated the inquiry into unauthorized air raids against North Vietnam, was the main inquisitor today as Lavelle resumed his testimony.

According to the Air Force, Lavelle ordered the raids after President Nixon had decreed no more bombing during delicate end-of-war negotiations in Paris last year. He was relieved of his command and ordered to retire after an enlisted man, Sgt. Lonnie Franks, wrote Hughes that the strikes were made and that he and others were ordered to falsify reports about the bombings.

Lavelle gave his side of the story before the committee Monday with panel members given a chance to question him.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who met with reporters following the secret session, said Lavelle denied disobeying any orders from higher ups. Stennis said that under the general's interpretation of the rules of engagement he was authorized to order the strikes.

Earlier, in testimony to the House Armed Services Committee, Lavelle admitted that he had ordered bombing operations that went beyond official orders.

"Gen. Lavelle gave us an explanation of the bombing missions," Stennis said. "He testified he never knowingly disobeyed orders and guidance provided by authorities above him."

Stennis also reported that Lavelle testified he had "no conscious knowledge" of falsification of reports.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., told reporters that Lavelle "explained everything quite well. He satisfied me. He was thoroughly sincere. He did what he thought was best for the country—and he did it with complete authority."

Thurmond also said there was "a serious question in my mind" why Lavelle was relieved of his command.

Idaho's elderly get pay boosts

By GEORGE FRANK
BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's 97,597 social security recipients, including 62,464 elderly, will begin receiving additional benefits because of a 20 per cent hike recently granted by Congress.

George Downey, assistant manager of the Social Security Administration in Boise, said total benefits coming into the state each month after the increase will be $12.8 million. Additional benefits total $2.1 million.

The increase, to show up in October checks, was effective in September.

State Tax Commission figures showed that 73.5 per cent of the elderly on social security make less than $3,000 per year. An office of aging researcher in the state's Special Services Department said the figure of those making under $3,000 appears to be higher than most states.

Paul Kitzhaber said, "In rural Idaho, many recipients own their own homes and the property taxes are hurting pretty badly. A lot of farmers never did pay in on Social Security."

The average Social Security payment recipient gets about $145 per month. With the increase, that will go up for most.

Will Overgaard, deputy director of the Office of Aging, said the increase will cause some money losses for about 500 recipients in Idaho who are presently receiving some Social Security and old age assistance.

About 700 persons are affected by the increase, but 200 are in nursing homes and it will not directly cut their monthly income.

The increase, Overgaard said, would put them over the maximum income to qualify for old age assistance making them ineligible for benefits which are greater than the increase.

He said state legislation might be necessary to correct his situation.

Idaho Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, said for millions of older Americans, the 20 per cent hike represents landmark legislation for two reasons — it will remove 1.4 million elderly from poverty rolls and protect the aged from inflation through cost of living increase adjustments.

The Democrat said, "I am also pleased that in adopting my amendment, Congress showed fiscal responsibility."

Experts needed

MALAD (UPI) — U. S. senate nominee William E. (Bud) Davis said if elected he will appoint experts in agriculture, education and environment to his staff to bring the legislative process "closer to the people of Idaho."

On a campaign swing through Oneida, Franklin, Caribou and Bear Lake counties, Davis said Idaho problems are too complex for any one legislator to handle without a qualified staff.

The Pocatello Democrat, on leave as president of Idaho State University, said his staff would act "to bridge the information gap that can exist between a legislator and the people he represents."

McClure spending reported

BOISE (UPI) — A total of $23,347 was spent in the U. S. Senate GOP nomination campaign by Congressman James McClure, figures filed with the secretary of state showed Monday.

Figures from the McClure for U. S. Senate Committee — his main committee financing his Idaho campaign — showed total receipts of $78,655. Another committee for the First District congressman in Washington, D.C. showed total receipts of $113,422.46 with expenses of $102,430.45.

However, a McClure aide said most of the money that was collected went back to the cost of collection by direct mail.

The spokesman said two direct mail items were sent to Idaho voters during the primary campaign and paid for by the committee.

The committee showed a cash on hand balance through Aug. 31 of $10,000.

Panama urges rejection of US Canal Zone funds

PANAMA-CITY (UPI)—The Panamanian People's Assembly, voting amid a chorus of shouts of "Down with Yankee Imperialism," Monday urged rejection of the $1.9 million the United States annually pays for using the Canal Zone.

The resolution passed by the 505-member assembly said Panama is demonstrating to the world that the Canal Zone "has not been purchased or conquered or annexed or ceded or leased" or its sovereignty transferred by the Republic of Panama to the United States of America.

The vote asked Panama's executive branch to turn down the next payment. The two nations are in the process of negotiating a new treaty to replace the original canal treaty of 1903. Panama has said frequently it will accept nothing less than full sovereignty over the Canal Zone.

The resolution, passed by acclamation, was one of the first items of business for the new assembly and was introduced by Hermelinda Fuentes, a Panamanian delegate who lives in the Canal Zone.

The resolution said rejection of the annuity the United States pays would also demonstrate that the Canal Zone "has been occupied arbitrarily" by the United States.

Pocatello highway suit seen

POCATELLO (UPI)—There is a possibility a class action suit may be filed by Pocatello City against the State Highway Department involving gas tax users funds.

During a city council meeting here Monday, Councilman Perry Swisher said City Attorney Jerry Olson should be requested to start the action because the Highway Department is apparently withholding some gas tax users funds from Idaho municipalities.

At issue is the diesel fuel taxes from the truckers to the motor carriers division, a special funds category.

City Manager, Church Moss, said the legislation which came out of the legislature this year allowed allocation of one-sixth the revenues from the users taxes.

This replaced the old measure whereby cities got a penny off top in addition to 4 1/2 per cent off the distribution formula of the user funds.

He said questions remain if the Highway Department can withhold diesel taxes from cities and can the department continue to designate distribution of the monies before going to the state treasurer's office.

Officials said it was expected the question would go to the attorney general's office for an opinion.

Suspects held in golf course case

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, V. I. (UPI)—Two suspects were in jail but five others were still at large as a search entered its seventh day today for the killers who gunned down eight persons at a posh golf course.

Police said Monday they believe the five wanted men are still on the island and will be captured. Gov. Melvin H. Evans expressed similar confidence in a statement. He said the island-wide search for the men was "augmented," but would not elaborate.

Seven armed men, masked and wearing bulletproof vests, sprang from the bushes bordering the swank, Rockefeller-owned Fountain Valley Golf Course Wednesday and sprayed the outside dining area with gunfire. Eight persons, including four Miami golfers, were killed and seven others, all St. Croix residents, were wounded.

The killers took their victims' wallets and personal valuables, robbed the clubhouse of $700 and fled. Police believe they are hiding in the hills near the 350-acre golf course, where dense jungle foliage hampers the search.

An estimated 100 men, including FBI agents from Puerto Rico and the United States, Virgin Islands police and federal marshals, are combing the jungle for traces of the killers.

Boise McGovern headquarters open

BOISE (UPI)—McGovern for President headquarters were opened in Boise Monday with the Idaho campaign coordinator saying the state campaign will focus on registration, issues presentation and voting.

Angela Nietzel said, "We in the Idaho campaign intend to present the issues and the candidates to the people."

Church raps Nixon as 'spendthrift'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Idaho Sen. Frank Church has charged the Nixon Administration with becoming a spendthrift administration of record proportions.

He told his Senate colleagues Monday the federal government cannot share what it does not have. He urged the passage of two of his amendments to the revenue-sharing bill which he said would raise almost $4 billion per year by plugging tax loopholes.

Murphy says McGovern idea 'irresponsible'

BOISE (UPI)—Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy Monday labeled as "irresponsible" Sen. George McGovern's latest two-year series idea on welfare and taxes.

Murphy, chairman of the Idaho Committee for Re-election of the President, told chairmen of statewide citizen committees for Nixon that most Americans "will not cheer the Democratic candidate's welfare and tax package."

He charged the plan would hike the taxes of a family of four with a yearly income of $12,500 by more than $1,000.

Tax reform plan loses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At- tacking the administration for "sophisticated" budget deficits, Senate liberals unsuccessfully sought Monday to attach tax reform to a $35 billion revenue sharing bill.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., offered the proposals, charging it was "the height of fiscal irresponsibility" to pass the five-year sharing plan without raising taxes to pay for it.

Defeated by a vote of 56 to 31 was an amendment that would have repealed the 20 per cent depreciation allowance increase given businesses for their plants and equipment.

Killed on a 60 to 23 vote was an amendment that would have repealed minimum tax laws which allow income tax deduc- tions under the stock option, capital gain, oil depletion and bad debt provisions. It also would have increased the minimum tax rate from 10 per cent to 50 per cent on income covered by those provisions and lowered the present $30,000 exemption to $12,000.

The senators argued the reform proposals would have raised nearly $4 billion a year in additional revenue to help pay for revenue sharing with the nation's cities and states.

"I cannot vote for this revenue-sharing measure," Church said, "unless we show the gumption to pay for it."

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman and floor manager of the bill, argued the amendments were "non-germaine" to the adminis- tration-backed measure.

Acknowledging he supported increasing the minimum tax on income covered by those special provisions, Long prom- ised the proposal would be "one of the principle items we will look at" when his committee conducts a tax reform study next year.

DAVID HINSOM sets TF talk

Airwest official sets talk

TWIN FALLS — Capt. David R. Hinsom, Hughes Airwest official, will address the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Hinsom is assistant to the general manager of the airline and has served in that capacity since August, 1971.

The club will meet at noon at the Turf Club.

Prior to his promotion to his present post, Hinsom was director of flight standards and engineering with responsibility for the technical aspects of flight operations.

Hinsom's talk will deal with the history of Hughes Airwest, the present status of the line, and its anticipated future.

Hinsom began his aviation career as a Navy pilot in 1954, and after service with that branch he flew for three years with Northwest Airlines, then joined United Airlines as a flight instructor.

After two years with that company, he joined West Coast Airlines in Seattle as assistant director of flight operations.

'Backseat ace' proud after bagging 5th MIG

HONOLULU (UPI) — Capt. Charles DeBellevue, America's first "backseat" ace of the Vietnam war, said Sunday he felt "proud" when he shot down his fifth Soviet-built MIG.

"It was a monumental occasion," the 27-year-old Air Force captain said.

DeBellevue was presented the Air Force cross, the silver star, and the distinguished flying cross at Hickam Air Force Base.

He was with Thailand-based F4 Phantom crews of the 432nd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing that downed two MIGs in a dogfight Saturday near Hanoi in North Vietnam.

The awards were presented by Lt. Gen. Timothy O'Keefe, vice commander in chief of the Pacific Air Force, who cited DeBellevue for "extraordinary acts of heroism and achievement."

DeBellevue was accompanied during the ceremony by Capt. Richard S. Ritchie, 30, the Air Force's first Vietnam ace who received the same three awards Saturday in Saigon.

Five "kills" give a fighter pilot "ace" status.

The backseater in a Phantom operates the radar and compu- ter gear needed to locate enemy planes and to put the plane in line with and close to the target — although the pilot actually fires the cannon or missiles.

DeBellevue scored his fifth kill about two hours before Ritchie received his awards. Ritchie heard of his "backseat- ing" kill just before his medals were presented. He said he was "very happy."

The men have been a team for the last six months in their Phantom F-4 jet.

Cadillacs recalled

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. Monday an- nounced recall of 37,000 Cadil- lacs produced at the end of the 1972 model year to find 5,000 defective left rear axle shafts.

The Cadillac Motor Division of GM said that the shafts may be a fraction of an inch too long and "could result in unusual pressure on the wheel bearing singled by loud noise."

"If this is ignored and the driver continues to operate the car without having it serviced," Cadillac said, "the bearing will fail and could cause a loss of rear wheel brakes."

DeBellevue said, "I feel proud" when asked about shooting down his fifth MIG jet.

Both men indicated support of the Vietnam war and when questioned on their role in American bombing said they were simply instruments of U.S. foreign policy.

"Nobody despises war more than us," Ritchie said as DeBellevue nodded. DeBellevue said, "We're over there doing a job. You can't say we're heartless killers. We're trying to end the war."

The fliers will be honored at the American Fighter Aces Association convention which begins Sept. 14 in San Antonio, Tex. After that gathering, they will also be honored at the Air Force Association's convention, family in Sacramento, Calif., in Washington, Sept. 16-20, and Ritchie will go to After the official ceremonies, Raleighville, N.C., to see his DeBellevue plans to visit his parents.

S. Viet Marines break stalemate

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Marines racing a Wednesday deadline have broken the bloody stalemate at Quang Tri City by storming the walls of the 19th Century Citadel and linking up inside its high brick walls, field reports said today.

While the Marines scored their impressive victory at Quang Tri City over North Vietnamese forces ordered to battle to the death, the U.S. Command was reporting what it called the most destructive raids over North Vietnam since heavy bombing was resumed more than five months ago. The U.S. planes using "smart" bombs hit three bridges within 25 miles of China.

The military situation worsened below Da Nang, however, and field reports today said a battalion of 250 South Vietnamese troops at Dien Phuoc, 38 miles south of Tan Phong, broke and ran under a furious Communist assault that included a 200 round of 130 mm artillery.

Initial reports from Quang Tri said contact with Communist troops was light inside the Citadel, but the biggest guns in the North Vietnamese arsenal were pounding the advancing marines while U.S. B52s bombed to keep North Vietnamese reinforcements away.

The first Marine units entered Sunday night through a hole blasted in the southeast corner of the Citadel by a U.S. Air Force laser-guided "smart" bomb July 10, UPI reporter Ted Kurrus said. On Monday night, reinforcements plunged through the hole in the 15-foot-high wall while another unit scaled over the opposite northeast corner, he said.

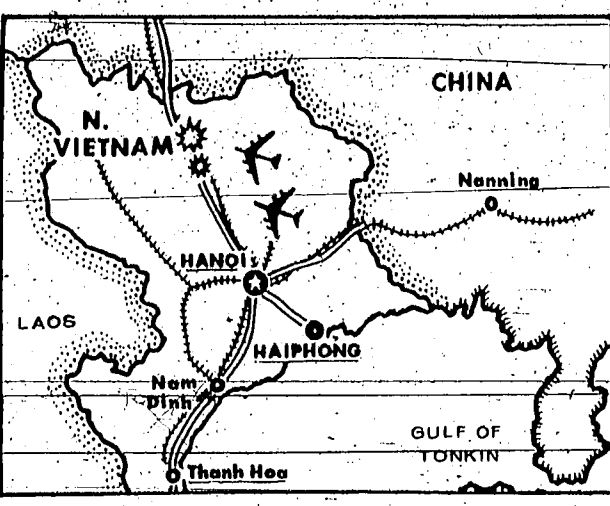

The two units, totaling about 300 men, soon joined up along the eastern wall and began pushing toward the heavy bunkers in the western sector. Communists have held the Citadel for 135 days.

President Nguyen Van Thieu has set Sept. 10 as the deadline for the recapture of all occupied territory, Kurrus said. Military sources told him the marines at Quang Tri were ordered to secure the forbidding citadel by Wednesday.

The Citadel, captured by the Communists May 1, loomed clearly today against blue skies as the highest point in battle-flattened Quang Tri City. Kurrus said more than 15 attacks by low-flying American and South Vietnamese planes hit Communist bunkers on the floor and along the western wall today.

North Vietnamese troops, under orders to "hold until death," have defied all government efforts to retake the Citadel until now. South Vietnamese airborne troops reentered the outskirts of Quang Tri City July 4 as the first big step of the government's counteroffensive.

After 21 days of agonizing house-to-house fighting, the paratroopers got some men inside the Citadel July 25 and even raised a flag at the highest point. But they were pulled out suddenly in heavy fighting and the marines took over the Quang Tri assignment two days later. The attempt to take the Citadel was abandoned temporarily in favor of cleaning up resistance in the heavy bunkers planted in almost every destroyed house in the city.

Planes strike

US COMMAND at Saigon said jet fighter-bombers today flew the most devastating raids near Hanoi and Haiphong since resumption of the air war more than five months ago. A US Navy air and sea armada swept into Thanh Hoa, knocking out a key railroad and highway bridge. Air Force jets knocked out three bridges near the Chinese border. (UPI)

Bus lack stalls desegregation

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The Memphis School Board instructed its attorneys today to tell a federal judge today that, without any buses, it cannot possibly arrange for the busing of almost 14,000 students before November or December.

Federal District Judge Robert M. McRae Jr. had given the board until today to present a timetable for implementation of a desegregation plan he first ordered last April 21.

However, the school board voted Monday night to ask McRae to wait until mid-semester to implement the busing plan for elementary students and until next fall for junior and senior high students.

Under the plan approved by the board, McRae was to be told that, depending on what bus firm was chosen to handle the transportation chore, the plan to transport about 10 per cent of the system's 140,000 students could begin in either November or December.

The board presently owns no school buses and has said it will cost more than $4,000 per day to lease the needed vehicles.

Monday night's school board meeting was attended by more than 500 spectators, many of whom were antibusing protesters who marched the half mile from the local fairgrounds to the board of education building. The march was sponsored by a group called Citizens Against Busing (CAB).

The CAB group has done everything from bury an old school bus to hold a mock funeral for neighborhood schools, and now threatens a major boycott if a busing plan is implemented in this city of 850,000 people, 40 per cent of whom are black.

German government gets report of bombing plot

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—The Defense Ministry, already jittery due to the Olympic massacre, scrambled two jet fighters and closed airspace over Munich Monday night when it received a report of a nightmare plot to bomb the packed Olympic Stadium during closing ceremonies.

The F104 Starfighters spent an hour hunting an "unidentified flying object" which turned out to be an errant Finnish airliner.

The Defense Ministry said the painful episode began with a "confirmed police report" at 8:03 p.m. that "Arab terrorists" had stolen a private plane from Leonberg airport, near Stuttgart. The report said the

Mexican smuggling ring specializes in aliens

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI)—The largest alien-smuggling ring ever discovered here specialized in sneaking Central Americans, apparently hundreds of them, into the United States, police said today.

City and federal police said 47 persons were in custody, including two Salvadorans and a Mexico City man allegedly involved in the racket, and more arrests were expected.

Police arrested 20 aliens at a home near the border with the United States Saturday, and picked up another 24 who arrived Monday. Authorities seized 275 forged U.S. immigration cards, 124 passports from El Salvador and 46 from Guatemala, indicating the

European monetary fund established

ROME (UPI)—Finance ministers of the enlarged European Common Market formally agreed today to establish a European Monetary Fund in hopes of preventing future currency upheavals and to take joint action to combat inflation.

The ministers will present their document on the monetary fund to the market's foreign ministers in a joint session later today for definite approval.

The fund would be used to help member countries to keep their currencies stable, and prevent them from suffering damage in the kind of massive speculative movement which has battered Europe for the past couple of years.

The finance ministers formally committed themselves to fighting together against inflation, and will meet again Oct. 31 to discuss what concrete action they must take after experts have produced working papers.

"The fight against inflation finally passes from speeches to joint action," said Italian treasury minister Giovanni Malagodi. He also said that both agreements today were of "extremely great political and technical importance."

Malagodi said the finance ministers will also ask the foreign ministers today to take the necessary steps that will enable the Common Market to pass on to its second stage of monetary, financial and economic integration by Jan. 1, 1974.

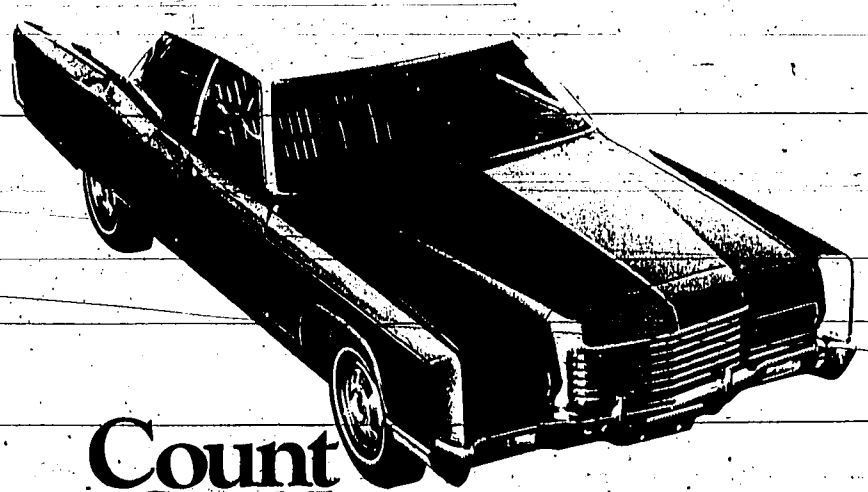

Malagodi said the anti-inflation policy would take into account the fact that different countries have different problems. Italy, for example, is wrestling with a combination of inflation and economic stagnation while booming West Germany's inflation is partly a result of its economic expansion.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber of Britain reportedly asked the ministers to take a closer look at agricultural and import policies, since these most directly influence the food prices which are the concern of every housewife.

Common Market experts said much of the anti-inflationary struggle would depend on the restriction of ready cash in Europe, by getting governments to limit credit and the issuing of new currency.

On the joint monetary fund,

Abby

Abigail Van Buren.

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that when a doctor knows there is no hope for a patient's recovery, he should tell the patient the truth?

My wife and I disagree on this. The patient happens to be her father. She insists that "ignorance is bliss," and her father should not have been told. (His doctor told him.)

I say it's a person's right to know so that he can put his affairs in order.

Isn't it the practice of most doctors to tell their patients the truth? And don't you think most patients would rather know? And finally, Abby, how do you feel about this?

J AND A

Truth best

DEAR J AND A: Most doctors believe in telling their patients the truth, but some will not if the family asks him not to, or if the doctor feels the patient can't handle it. (Most patients "know" without being told, but pretend not to.)

Since nobody gets out of this world alive, death should be looked upon realistically, and without fear. There is no "bliss" in ignorance which creates false hope, and the inconvenience and confusion of unfinished business.

DEAR ABBY: At a recent family wedding, my brother in law (who was under the influence of alcohol at the time), confided that he had passed on a letter addressed to his sister (my wife) in care of his office! He said it was from an old boy friend of hers.

My wife is, and has been for many years a "swinger," while I've gradually approached impotency. I regret to admit. Now for the problem: I have reason to believe that the letter set up a specific time and place for an upcoming meeting between the two of them.

Casually, I told my wife that if that were true, it was 100 per cent O. K. with me, except that I did not want to ever know about it.

Have I unconsciously "regressed" to the younger generation's standards? Or am I being maturely realistic?

CONSENTING CUCKOLD

DEAR CONSENTING: No decent man would give his wife permission to carry on with someone else. And a mature man would certainly not say, "Go ahead, but I don't want to know about it." (P. S. and tell your brother in law with the big mouth that he not only drinks too much, he talks too much!)

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I invited a couple to be our guests for dinner out. In the meantime, some casual friends telephoned and said they'd like to get together with us, so we asked if they cared to join us for dinner. They said they would, and they brought their TWO children along!

My husband asked the waiter for separate checks so he could give the couple who came and brought their children their own checks, but the waiter said, "Sorry, we are not accustomed to doing that here."

The upshot of the whole thing was that my husband got stuck for the entire bill (over $60) plus the tip.

Don't you think this was very nervy of the couple who came along?

My husband is not a wealthy man. He is just gracious and friendly.

What do you think we should have done?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Your husband should have asked the other couple for their share of the bill. What's so complicated about that?

CONFIDENTIAL TO MILWAUKEE SENTINEL-READER: Yes, I have a few hangups, and unlike you, four-letter words are among them. But the dirtiest word I know is a THREE-LETTER word, "WAR!"

Nuptial rites performed

TWIN FALLS — Annetta Louise Barker and Pfc. Barney Glavin were united in marriage Aug. 30 in the First Presbyterian Church, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Edwin H. Barker, and the bridegroom is the son of Don Glavin and Dahlia Glavin, all Twin Falls.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert VanNest. The altar was decorated with baskets of yellow and orange gladioli and candelabra entwined with yellow and orange gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length ivory pearl-de-sole gown with rows of lace down the front and around the neck. Her floor-length veil was held by a seeded pearl venise cap with English illusion. The dress was made by Mrs. Gene McIntyre, Twin Falls.

She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. She wore an heirloom pin and earring set that belonged to her great-grandmother.

Patti McWilliams was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Diana Cheney and Jill Hadley, all Twin Falls.

Shelley Iverson, Jerome, cousin of the bride, carried a basket of yellow and white daisies. Ray Day, Twin Falls, cousin of the groom, carried rings on a lace and daisy trimmed, white satin pillow, made by the bridegroom's mother.

Mike Hadley, Twin Falls, served as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Hadley-Filer, Mike Barker, brother of the bride, Twin Falls, and Glenn Meyer, Filer.

Debbie Heller, organist, Twin Falls, played traditional wedding music, and accompanied soloists Marueen Hopkins, Buhl, aunt of the bridegroom, and Kim Glavin, Twin Falls, sister of the bridegroom.

A reception in honor of the newlyweds was held in the fireside lounge of the church, following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a yellow cloth enhanced with an ecru lace flourish-trimmed with orange and yellow bows and flowers.

The table was centered with a three-tiered white cake decorated with yellow and white daisies and topped with wedding bells and daisies. It also featured a blue miniature waterfall.

Mrs. Oscar Ford, Twin Falls, made and decorated the cake.

Silver candelabra were enhanced with yellow tapers and yellow daisies completed the table arrangement. Punch and coffee were served at both ends of the table.

The wedding cake was served by Mary Moeller, Jerome, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Gene McIntyre, Twin Falls. Mrs. Edd Moeller, Jerome, and Mrs. Rose Cobb, Jerome, aunts of the bride, served the coffee and punch. Bonnie Allee was in charge of the guest book.

Gifts were received by Sandy Breme and Cherry Kuykendall, school friends of the bride.

Guests were seated at tables covered with orange and yellow tablecloths and featuring orange and yellow arrangements of gladioli.

After a trip to Sun Valley, the couple will go to Germany where they will live for a year and a half while the bridegroom is in the service.

Mrs. Lorene Glavin, grand-mother of the bridegroom, was a special guest at the wedding. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's mother.

The bride was honored with a lingerie shower given by Mrs. Ted Cheney and daughter Diana, Twin Falls. A miscellaneous shower was given for the couple by Mrs. C. E. McWilliams and daughter Patti, Twin Falls.

One of the commonest mistakes rubber bridge players make is over-reliance on the Blackwood convention.

They don't realize that Blackwood is more a method of keeping out of bad slams than of getting to good ones, and in some places it is almost considered illegal to bid a slam without chirping four—no trump—somewhere along the way.

Thus, it was very surprising to see North, with a hand just built for Blackwood use, forgetting about East's fine convention and jumping right to six hearts.

West hoped to be able to cash both his aces, but was too smart to double. He could gain 100 points if he aces held up; he could lose a lot more if North knew what he was doing and was void of one of the black suits.

North was very apologetic in the ensuing conversation. He said that his hand looked so good that he just forgot about the possibility that his partner might not have even one ace.

We were drawn into the discussion. We pointed out that we sympathized a little with North, but hoped that North would not let enthusiasm run away with him in the future. After all, we remarked, "There is no extra bonus for a slam bid all at once."

SPORT CLOTHES GO TOGETHER

By Mary Sue Miller

A careerist speaks: I don't care what they wear, I'm going to wear pants. Heard at the Town Club: Skirts for me to cover the knee. Pants only to hack around in. Classroom rap: Long skirts, night and day. Jeans? Yes, for active stuff. There you have it. Pants continue but, in most instances, skirts gain favor. What's more, pants have joined the trend toward a classic, finished costume. Topping pants with any old jacket will no longer do.

For example, a gray flannel smock swings wide above the knees of matching flannel pants. Or black and white tartan pants sport a classic hunting pink jacket. Or a beige cashmere sweater pulls over camel pants.

Pants themselves are strictly tailored and fitted, sometimes widened at the bottom, sometimes cuffed. There is no bagging at the thigh or derriere, no pinching in the mid-section. If your contours do not meet the demands at the moment, corsetry can — a shaper with long, easy-moving lines.

Accessories can make or break the "whole thing." For fine effects look to foulard and striped scarves in autumnal shades . . . conventional vests in men's wear fabrics . . . pigskin and chamois gloves . . . leather walkers and knobby walking stick . . . jaunty Basque or tweed berets.

Speak your own piece, loud and clear!

Scarfs contribute to deaths

CHICAGO (UPI) — A study in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association showed that nearly half of the persons involved in accidents involving the wearing of scarfs died.

Reporting on the "long scarf" or "Isador Duncan syndrome," JAMA said in the study of 11 cases the death rate was 45 per cent.

Dancer Isadora Duncan was strangled when her long scarf caught in the wheel of a convertible she was riding in.

The journal said all accidents occurred in the winter when the scarfs became entangled in moving machinery. Nine of the victims were females between the ages of 10 and 30.

The report said the prevention is simple "and consists merely of removing or covering the scarf when worn near moving machinery."

Family honors Springdale couple

SPRINGDALE — The family of Mr. and Mrs. O. Edgar Christensen honored their parents at a surprise 47th wedding anniversary dinner party at Price's Cafe Friday.

All of their children, five sons and three daughters, and their spouses attended. # Butz challenges McGovern claims

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz challenged George S. McGovern Monday to produce a "shred of evidence" that any grain dealers got inside information enabling them to profit at the expense of U.S. consumers and farmers in a massive grain sale to Russia.

Butz accused the Democratic presidential nominee of uttering "a bald-faced lie" in suggesting that Butz and a former agriculture official worked out details three months before the agreement was announced.

The other official, Clarence B. Palmby, subsequently left the department and took a top job with one of the companies involved in the grain sales.

In a related development, the National Association of Wheat Growers called on Butz to restore $20 million to $25 million in government payments which it said would be lost to farmers because of the way the sales affected the farm payment formula.

Growers affected are those who sold their 1972 wheat before they learned orders by Moscow were driving up U.S. prices and simultaneously resulting in a cut in the subsidy payment rate for growers.

At his second news conference in three days to counter McGovern's charges about the way the administration handled the grain deal, Butz said:

"I appeal publicly to McGovern that if he has a shred of evidence to back up his charges, I want it on record before Thursday."

That is when a House subcommittee is scheduled to open hearings on the huge sale, which is said to amount already to a quarter of the entire 1972 U.S. wheat crop.

Butz issued a strong, new defense of Palmby, a former assistant secretary who participated in early stages of the negotiations with Russia and then quit to join a private trading firm.

Butz said on Saturday he asked McGovern to retract "unfounded and inaccurate" charges that Butz and Palmby negotiated the agreement in April but that the public didn't find out until July.

Butz said Monday he wanted to re-emphasize his Saturday demand. "Again I call for a public retraction of his bald-faced lie," he said.

"He (McGovern) responded by repeating them (the charges). I therefore must conclude that his personal and political motives are to undercut this sale and our efforts to improve East-West relations."

McGovern, in addition to charging that farmers and consumers lost because of secrecy in the grain deal, also had referred to questions raised about the movement of government officials, including Palmby, to posts in private grain firms.

Fund grows

KELLOGG (UPI)—The Miners' Memorial Education Fund is nearing the $100,000 mark. The fund was started to help educate the approximately 200 children left fatherless when 81 men died in the Sunshine Mine fire near here May 2.

H. F. Magnuson, trustee of the fund, said the total stands at $99,393 today.

Magnuson said there was no actual goal for the fund except to help pay for the educating of the children.

Price hikes asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Price Commission will open four days of hearings today into requests by automakers to raise the prices of 1973 models from $47 to $140 per model.

Saturday, the Price Commission told Chrysler Corp. it could not raise its new car prices on an interim basis until the government decides what the final increase—if any—should be.

Chrysler had asked for an average increase of $91.32 on its 1973 models.

Other price-increase requests have been filed by General Motors, Ford Motor Co., American Motors and International Harvester.

The automakers have represented the price increases as necessary to cover costs that will be incurred by improvements to meet safety, bumper and emission control standards required by federal law.

'New' Fischer looming

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bobby Fischer plans to expand his monastic life-style to include a car, a home in Southern California and more dates with girls now that he is world chess champion, Life magazine reported Sunday.

But no change will diminish the position of chess as the most important thing in Fischer's life, the magazine said.

"What I really want to do is encourage respect for chess," Fischer was quoted as telling Life last week in Reykjavik, Iceland. "Chess masters should play under superb conditions and be paid as well as top athletes."

"Whatever Muhammad Ali gets, next time I want more!" he added, with a grin.

Life said the first thing Fischer probably will buy with his money is a Mercedes and the next a house or apartment in Southern California.

"Now that I'm champion I'm going to see more girls," the 29-year-old bachelor said. The magazine said some of Fischer's friends are betting he will be married within a year.

"In love as in chess, Fischer is fussy about playing conditions," Life said. "He likes tall girls with excellent figures."

'Spy squad' claim filed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans was accused Monday of paying a "political espionage squad" to spy on Democrats out of President Nixon's campaign funds and destroying records to hide it.

The Democratic Party made the charge in amending its complaint in a civil suit growing out of the Watergate bugging incident and increased its demand for damages from $1 million to $3.2 million.

In papers filed with the U.S. District Court, the Democrats said Stans, now finance chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, "embarked upon a conspiracy" with a number of others in the spring to set up the spy operation.

Stans supplied the money to finance "a number of illegal entries" at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee—including the one June 17 in which five men were nabbed with what police have described as bugging equipment, the papers charged.

The Democrats also said the spy ring was responsible for wiretaps on the phones of top party officials and an attempt ed raid on the presidential campaign offices of Sen. George S. McGovern.

Stans' name has frequently been mentioned in connection with what has come to be known as the "Watergate Caper" and the House Banking Committee, conducting its own investigation of the incident, asked Stans to appear Thursday. But lawyers for the former cabinet official told the committee they had advised Stans not to appear.

Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., responded that "a high level decision has obviously been made to continue a massive cover-up" of the affair.

Democrats also added six co-defendants in the suit—two Nixon re-election committees, Stans, and three men who allegedly conspired with him. They were Hugh W. Sloan Jr., treasurer of the campaign committee until last July; G. Gordon Liddy, the committee counsel and former White House aide who was fired when he refused to talk to the FBI about the case; and E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former $100-a-day White House consultant.

Manila battle leaves 2 dead

MANILA (UPI)—A police sergeant and a suspected Maoist guerrilla were killed Monday in a gun battle between police and an armed band believed on a mission to blow up a major oil depot in a Manila suburb in the latest of a series of Communist terrorist attacks in the metropolitan area.

The leader of the suspected Maoist New Peoples Army (NPA) commando band was killed in the gun battle with police in a two-story house just a few yards from the back of the Mobil Oil petroleum dump.

The gunfight at Pandacan followed information that NPA guerrillas were holed up in the house.

A police team dispatched to the house was greeted by gunfire that killed Sgt. Benjamin de Leon. The guerrilla was killed when police returned the fire.

The petroleum dump is located on a river bank, along with oil depots of Getty Oil, Esso-Phillips, Shell, Caltex and Piliol-Gulf Oil, and adjoins a residential area in Manila's Pandacan district.

One of the guerrillas escaped. Six other suspected Maoists were captured aboard a jeep on route to Pandacan and were held at the national police headquarters. Police said they were being held on suspicion of plotting to blow up the oil depot.

KP's 'in' again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Starting next spring, if the House Appropriations Committee has its way, it will be back to the kitchen for GIs, whose time-honored KP duties have been all but abolished.

Also, under an edict by the committee Monday, low-ranking enlisted men again would be seen in some old familiar postures—picking up cigarette butts, trimming grass and policing their barracks.

The armed forces, which have been hiring civilians to take over these chores, wanted $204 million this year to complete the transition. The appropriations committee provided half this amount, and told the Defense Department to wind up the program by next April 30.

The committee in a report on its action said it favors "civilianization" in the military, wherever practical. But hiring civilians to take over KP and butt duty is going too far, in the committee's opinion.

TF solons discuss welfare plan

By DAVID ESPÓ
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls legislators defended the concept of a welfare program Monday night before a meeting of the Twin-Falls-Welfare-Mothers Organization.

But Raymond Stricklan, a Democrat seeking election to the state senate in district 24, disagreed sharply, saying "I'm against it. But if you must have it it should be on a more equal basis. If it were up to me, I would abolish it altogether, along with Social Security. Private insurance is better than public insurance."

Stricklan said "the people should support the government, the government shouldn't support the people."

Stricklan and Republican candidates for the legislature, incumbent state Senators John M. Barker, Buhl, and Richard S. High, Twin Falls, as well as Reps. William Lanting, Hollister; Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls, and William Roberts, Buhl, appeared at a panel discussion attended by about 40 persons. Also present was Ralph Olmstead, a Republican candidate for the state house of representatives, and A. K. (Aud) Reed, a Democrat also seeking election to the house. Olmstead left the meeting early, however, saying he had other commitments, and Reed was among the members of the audience, although he did once address the group as a candidate.

High told the group that Governor Andrus' recently ordered 1.9 per cent holdback in general fund agency spending would cost the Idaho Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services (SRS) approximately $300,000 in state funds, and about $700,000 in matching federal grants.

It was the latest in a series of attacks on the effect of the governor's ordered holdback, which High and Roberts last week said was premature.

Roberts told the group "no budgets were cut as far as the legislature is concerned. Where we did cut was under the agency's request." He cited figures showing the legislature had appropriated $11.6 million to SRS for the present fiscal year, an increase over $11.1 million a year ago.

All the candidates joined in a plan to the women in the audience drawing aid to dependent children checks from the government to eliminate the "fraud in the system."

They called attention to attempts to prosecute men for failure to make payments for support as a potential increase in the permanent welfare fund.

Twin Falls Pros. Atty. Leon Smith said Tuesday his office roughly handled over a dozen such cases a week.

Lincoln told the group, "I'm soft on kids. The public will support you if you will work if you can. There's no problem there," he said. But he continued, "The public will support you if you do away with some of the fraud."

His plan for assistance in eliminating the fraud in the system was echoed by other panelists.

Reed, in his statement to the group, said the system was "rent necessary. The biggest fault is abuse and that reflects on everybody."

Lanting told the audience the "government is based in Christian principles. I adhere to the philosophy that we are our brother's keeper. This is certainly true when people do need help. The only Christian thing to do is to help them. I'm not totally opposed to welfare. I wouldn't want to be put in that category."

But Stricklan disagreed with the philosophy expressed by the other panelists. In his concluding remarks to the group he said, "I would like to see it (welfare) go out eventually. It probably will."

L. James Koutnik, Twin Falls, served as moderator for the discussion.

TF County asks rehearing of health case

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County officials have filed for an Idaho Supreme Court rehearing in their case against the South Central Idaho District Health Department.

Douglas Kramer, special attorney for the county in the case, said the petition was mailed Friday night asking the court to rehear the matter.

He said the decision is a change of earlier plans to accept a supreme court decision which ordered the county to pay its share of the district health budget.

County Commission Chairman William Chancy said today the county has not yet but will amend the county budget to meet the full amount as ordered by the high court, but is appealing for reconsideration for future years.

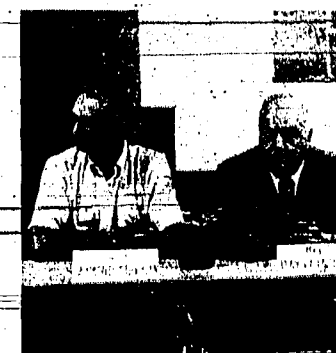

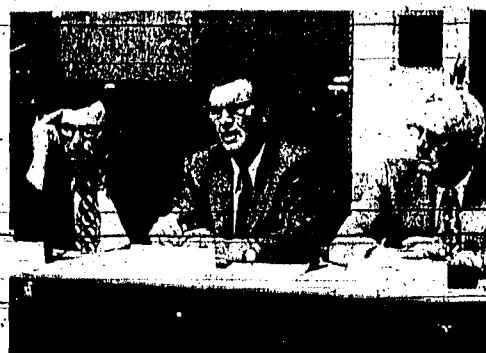

Twin Falls County asked for a supreme court ruling on the health district's demand for a $1.66 per capita assessment in the county which would increase Twin Falls County's health budget from $33,546 to $60,400. Instead of accepting the district's $1.66 per capita assessment, the county budgeted $51,000 for the health board, and asked for a supreme court clarification.

The county contended the district did not have the right to issue tax levies against property owners in counties.

Kramer said in reviewing the supreme court's ruling, which was not unanimous, the county decided to request further review by the court. He said in a rehearing, should it be granted by the supreme court, the county will stress arguments on the delegation of legislative authority from the counties to the health district.

He said the county still strongly feels elected county officials should set tax levies in their own counties and district powers should not supersede county authority.

He said the law authorizes a two mill maximum levy in the counties for public health and the per capita assessment could be imposed to the full two mills in the small counties, and to remain equitable on a per capita basis would push the larger counties over the two mill limitation.

Discuss welfare plans

Levies set in Lincoln

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County commissioners continue to meet this week to set the county levies.

During routine business conducted Monday the commissioners took under advisement a proposed budget of $6,878 for Lincoln County's share of the South Central District Health Department's 1973 budget. This represents $2.25 per capita according to Dr. Wayne Carte, director of the health department.

Dr. Carte said the district budget has been tentatively approved by the board of directors, but has yet to be presented to the budget committee for final action.

Lincoln County commissioners did approve the appointment of Edward M. Tapper in Sun Valley as the Blaine County member to the South Central Health District board replacing Dr. Bernard Krielkamp. They also approved a fund of $2,000 for Lincoln County's share in the supportive agreement with Blaine County for the Wood River Mental Health Clinic for 1972.

A special meeting was set for 8:30 p.m. Monday at the C. F. Charfield residence, Richfield, for all farmers in the county who had signed grasshopper eradication contracts this summer. County extension Agent Ivan Hopkins reported on the grasshopper eradication project carried out in the county earlier this summer.

The public is invited to a meeting at 8 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Lincoln County Courthouse, Shoshone, called by the Economic Development Administration.

Car hits train

BURLEY — Arnold Bigler, 56, Burley, was treated and released at Cassia Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon following a train-pickup accident west of Burley.

Bigler was driving a pickup owned by Bud Wilson, Burley, north on the Valley Concrete Road and was struck by the Union Pacific train traveling east.

The pickup was demolished and the train received $25 damage to the rear foot board. Ray Wood, 51, Pocatello, was the train engineer. Conductor was E. L. Taylor, 55, Rupert, and brakemen were Paul Courtright, 61, Minidoka, and A. R. Zoerb, 53, Rupert. None of the train crew was injured.

Gordon Mills, Idaho State Police, reported the pickup was struck in the left front.

Blaine parks unit makes first budget request

HAILEY — The new Blaine County Parks Board has made a first year budget request for $20,000.

Jerry Johnson, East Fork, board chairman, told the county commissioners Monday that the figure would cover possible land and access road acquisition and development as well as improvement of present parks.

The seven member parks board was formed as an advisory unit to the commission last spring at the request of the late commission chairman John Fox.

The commissioners took no action on the request and are expected to complete work on mill levies today.

Johnson said that the board is probably the first of its kind in the state and that no guidelines exist on budget needs. However, he listed specific allocations as $2,000 for the Carey Park and $1,500 for the Little Wood River

Reservoir Park.

In other budget matters, Dr. Wayne Carte, director of the South Central District Health Department, requested a $2.25 per capita allocation.

The director said that the increase over last year's request for $1.66 per capita was necessitated by the addition of one environmentalist in the district and the setting up of a building fund for a new district office.

Jerome OK's audit

JEROME — The Jerome School board Monday night accepted the 1971-72 audit report from Ron Rogers, district auditor.

Rogers reported that the district had spent $26,000 less than the amount budgeted for last year.

Supt. John Campbell read a letter from D. L. Hicks, program administrator of special services for the Idaho Department of Education which stated that Jerome's share of Title I funds for the fiscal year, 1972, would be about $32,000.

The trustees in other action canceled the 1972 mill levy of six mills and approved a total of $416,347.89 to be certified in mill levy by the Jerome County commissioners.

The hiring of Mrs. Beverly Diehl who has a certificate from the University of Idaho as commercial teacher in the high school was approved.

The trustees also approved a request by Supt. Campbell that the district apply for an emergency levy from the county commissioners because of the increased enrollment in the district. A total of $2,444.33 is expected on the levy which Campbell said would be used by the district for textbooks.

According to Campbell's report, the average daily attendance is up 5.55 students over last year in the first nine days of school.

William Kersey, school trustee, requested that the board at its next regular meeting discuss the possibility of the school district purchasing some land adjacent to the present school areas. "I feel the board should seriously look into this matter before the cost of land in Jerome gets too far out of reach," Kersey said.

Campbell reported that the district this year will use Title I money to upgrade the libraries and the music department. He said one thing the district will do is add paperback books to the libraries dealing with informational type material.

Jo Barrett, physical education teacher for the elementary schools, showed a short film of last year's motor development program given to the first grade students.

Cassia to seek school bond election this fall

BURLEY — The Cassia County School board agreed Monday night to call for a $2.6 million bond election to finance school building expansion and renovation.

The election was tentatively planned for early in October, pending drawing up of specifications by architects and engineers.

The proposal calls for $750,000 to construct a new elementary school at Declo; $500,000 for expansion of Burley High School; $250,000 for renovation of the present Oakley High School building; $125,000 for a multi-learning addition to Raft River High School at Malta; and $1,075,000 for construction of a new elementary school in the Burley area.

An additional $100,000 would be raised for use where needed. The plan includes transferring high school students from Declo and Oakley to the enlarged Burley High School, and changing those two school buildings to junior highs. The Springdale Elementary School would be discontinued.

Only board member Charles Ward, Malta, was opposed to the plan.

Earlier in the evening, the board heard a protest from Mr. and Mrs. Grandin Steiner over the transfer of their child from Dworshak Elementary School to Miller School.

Ira Coltrin, principal at Dworshak School, explained to the board that 23 first graders had to be transferred to other schools in Burley because of an overload. The move still leaves 32 students in the Dworshak first grade classroom.

Coltrin said students chosen to be transferred included those who were the only one in their family attending school, and those who were already being bused in.

Supt. Harold Blauer said parents were notified before any of the students were transferred, and this was the only protest. The Steiners objected that their child would have to walk three blocks further to attend Miller School.

The board voted to leave the transfer of students to the judgment of the superintendent.

The first resolution was that funding of new school buildings be put on the state level with creation of a state building program. Recommended also was establishment of a legislative committee to make a feasibility study of whether school buses, gasoline and supplies could be purchased cheaper through large-volume purchase by the state than through individual districts.

The third resolution called for the Fourth District Trustees Association to go on record favoring legislative action which would make it unlawful for any wholesale or retail firm or jobber operating in the state to refuse to sell to any agency of the state except where it may be proven that accounts with such agencies are not being settled within a reasonable amount of time.

Minidoka board reviews levies

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Minidoka County school board reviewed and approved certification of levies totaling $573,021 at its regular meeting Monday evening.

An additional $31,610 was added to the budgeted maintenance and operations levy, boosting that certification to $604,630. The remaining levies included equalization, emergency, inventory phase-out, REA, tort insurance and tax loss because of exemptions.

The emergency levy will provide $37,645 for funds to accommodate the 79 new students in the district.

In other action, the board approved a one-year subscription to the Idaho Statewide Information System for computerized fiscal programming. The service, at a cost of $330 per month, will broaden and expedite the district's fiscal information, according to Supt. Darrell Hatfield.

The board also approved teaching contracts for Kathryn Wooten, Minico High School, and Lee Van Houten, East Minico Junior High. Incremental raises for coaching staff were granted to Gary Swan, Jack Taylor, Floyd Browning, Larry Norby and Deyra Burton.

The trustees voted to continue to work with the Idaho Department of Vocational Education to provide adult education classes for the district.

Jerome hears sewer ordinance

JEROME — In a special meeting Monday night the Jerome City Council heard the first reading of a city ordinance to raise the present sewer rates.

The new rates, if adopted, will go into effect on Oct. 3, and will still be based on the amount of water a patron uses.

Councilman Walt Bentzinger, in charge of the sewer department, had requested that the council approve doubling the sewer rate schedule but was met with heavy opposition from other council members who did not feel doubling all of the rates would be fair to all the sewer subscribers.

Following a great deal of discussion and figuring the following schedule was approved by the council: A subscriber who uses 200 cubic feet or less will pay $1.50 per month, compared to $1 before; over 200 cubic feet but not more than 400, $2.25, compared to $1.25; from 400 to 750 cubic feet, $2.50, compared to $1.50; 750 to 1,125 cubic feet, $3, compared to $1.75; 1,125 to 1,875, $4, twice the amount of the old schedule; from 1,875 to 2,625, $5, from 2,625 to 3,375 cubic feet, $5; 3,375 to 4,125 cubic feet, $7; 4,125 to 4,875 cubic feet, $8; 4,875 to 5,625 cubic feet, $9; 5,625 to 12,500 cubic feet, $12; 12,500 to 17,500, $16; 27,500 to 55,000 cubic feet, $20; from 55,000 cubic feet to 71,500, $24. All of the last nine fees mentioned reflect a 100 per cent increase.

Subscribers using 71,500 to 100,000 cubic feet, $30, and any amount over 100,000 cubic feet will have a negotiated sewer charge. The new ordinance also states that trailer and mobile homes in trailer parks, duplexes and apartments would be charged $2 per unit with office occupancies $1.50 per unit. Subscribers living outside the city limits will be charged double the new schedule.

It was pointed out at the meeting that Jerome has not had an increase in the sewer rates for a good many years and residents were not charged any extra after the new sewer plant was installed.

Bentzinger said that the sewer plant is in need of repair with old equipment wearing out. He noted that the city should bring a fund toward the day when the city will have to apply for federal money to expand the plant.

"Even with the new rates, the city will be in the red at the end of this year as far as the sewer plant is concerned," Bentzinger said.

Gooding commissioners turn down zoning

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — A resolution requiring county commission and planning commission approval on all construction and land use alteration has been turned down by the county commissioners.

The resolution, submitted by the County planning commission, would have pertained to all applications of over $1,000 in value.

County Commission Chairman Ben Glauner said the county commissioners would have turned the resolution down when it was first submitted Aug. 14. However, the planning group wanted a hearing on the resolution so the commissioners could obtain public opinion on the question.

In a hearing Aug. 31, 50 persons attending expressed almost unanimous opposition to the resolution.

Glauner said, "We are not ready yet to handle anything like this resolution, since it legally has no teeth in it and because of extra work required, it would mean a lot of trouble for nothing."

He said the county should have a plan completed first. The planning commission has just started preparing a comprehensive plan for the county and planning commission officials expect it to take a year for completion.

However, the planning commission has established a set of goals and objectives for county planning. County commissioners said Monday nothing will be done in the way of zoning in the county until that planning commission's plan is complete.

Before zoning can be enacted, commissioner said, several legal steps such as hearings will be required.

County Clerk Vivian Burden informed the county commissioners that the county has gone down this year. She said the county did not levy as much this year as last and is still spending $900 per month less than allowed in the budget.

The decrease is partly due to a new state program which helps cover drug costs for indigents. Mrs. Burden told the commissioners the county valuation on the 1972 tax roll is up $332,870. This year's county valuation was $17,603,369.

Dr. Wayne Carte, medical director of the South Central Health District, met with the commissioners to present the district's proposed budget for the coming year.

The total budget for the eight-county district as proposed is $231,720. This compares to $179,958 for 1972.

Dr. Carte said the increase is due to building fund needs estimated at $30,000 per year. Dr. Carte said by the end of 1973, "We will be out in the street."

The district offices are currently in the Twin Falls City Hall. Dr. Carte said the city has notified them they need the space for city office use and another location must be obtained by the health district.

Increases are also needed to meet higher operating costs and for increasing the staff.

Gooding County's share of the new budget would be $14,351 which is $1.66 per capita for county residents. According to the new proposed budget Gooding would provide $10,451, or $2.25 per capita.

County Clerk Burden announced a cut-off date of 45 days prior to the Nov. 7 general election has been set by the secretary of state for the filling of any ballot vacancies. She said the district committee and county committees have until Sept. 22 to recommend candidates to fill vacancies. She said absentee ballot applications are being accepted at this time.

Shoshone man hurt at Burley

BURLEY — A Shoshone man received minor injuries in a two-car accident early Monday morning five miles east of Burley.

According to Idaho State Police vehicles driven by Steven R. Lewis, 20, Shoshone, and Gene M. Phillips, 30, Heyburn, were both headed south on Highway 27.

Apparently Lewis was attempting to turn left when the Phillips vehicle struck his vehicle from behind.

Lewis was cited for failure to signal and Phillips was cited for passing in an intersection. Estimated damages were $400 to the Lewis vehicle and $800 to the Phillips vehicle.

Governor signs safety agreement

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus signed a temporary agreement with the federal government Monday to provide for concurrent safety inspections of private industry by the state. Idaho's State Labor Department was pre-empted by the federal government in enforcement of the Occupational Safety and Health Act last spring when the legislature refused to pass a bill to bring the state into compliance with federal requirements.

While state inspectors have counseled some businessmen about safety standards and the federal requirements since then, Labor Commissioner Bart Brown said it has been on an invitational basis only.

Under the agreement signed today, state inspectors may return to the private sector and make "concurrent inspections" with the federal government while Brown tries once again for enabling legislation.

He said state inspectors would go into the private sector immediately as a result of the temporary agreement. He said Idaho now has 12 inspectors to conduct such work.

Federal funds on a 90-10 matching ratio are available under the agreement for development of a state plan to meet federal standards. Brown said two persons may be hired under the agreement, one of them an industrial hygienist.

Brown has pressed for stepped-up federal inspections because of a large rise in industrial deaths during the past few months. He said these fatalities are up 62 per cent over the same point a year ago, adding this does not count the 91 miners who died in the Sunshine Mine fire at Kellogg May 2 nor agricultural deaths.

He said he is hopeful the legislature this winter will approve a measure allowing the state to administer the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act on a state level. He said state standards at present are very close to the federal requirements and would need only a small amount of upgrading.

At present there are two permanent federal safety inspectors in the state to carry out provisions of OSHA and federal officials said others may be brought in on a temporary basis from time to time.

News Of Servicemen

JIM SCARBOROUGH

AMOS A. JORDAN — Gen. Amos A. Jordan has been promoted to Brigadier General and awarded the Distinguished Service Medal on his retirement from the Army.

He has served for 27 years, the last 17 as professor of Social Sciences at the Military Academy, West Point. He will become director of the Aspen Institute of Humanities Studies.

Gen. Jordan's wife is the former MarDeane Carver, Pocahontas. He has six children, Mrs. Peggy Chu, Gooding; Diana, a graduate student at the University of Utah; Keith, a law student at Vanderbilt University; David, a junior at Bowdoin College; Linda, a freshman at Idaho State University; and Kent, a high school sophomore.

JEROME — Seaman Jim G. Scarborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scarborough, is home on leave after completing postal clerk school in San Diego, Calif.

He will be assigned to the U. S. Naval Facility, Barbados, West Indies, where he will assume duties as postal clerk.

Seaman Scarborough graduated from Jerome High School and enlisted in the Navy in May, 1972.

GOODING — Marine Sgt. Jesse R. Cleverley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Cleverley and husband of Marleen Cleverley, all Gooding, received the Good Conduct Medal aboard the aircraft carrier USS America.

He was cited for his exemplary service during the past three years.

Brakes failed

TWIN FALLS — Robert B. Williams, Twin Falls, said brake failure preceded an accident involving a truck he was driving near Murtaugh Friday morning.

Williams said a rear wheel cylinder had blown out, causing the brakes on the truck to fail. He said he guided the truck across a driveway, a corner of a flower bed and a concrete ditch. The truck came to rest on its wheels and did not upset as was indicated in an account of the accident.

The accident occurred a mile east and a mile south of Murtaugh. Williams was driving south.

Non-GOP vote seen for Nixon

LAKE VILLA, Ill. (UPI) — Herbert Klein, director of communications for President Nixon, says many Democrats and Independents are uniting behind Nixon because Sen. George McGovern's programs would raise taxes, add to welfare rolls, cause disastrous unemployment and accelerate inflation.

"Senator McGovern would give more money away and more government spending would signal more inflation," Klein said Sunday. "More inflation would mean higher food prices, greater education costs, bigger housing costs, steeper transportation costs and overall higher prices on everything Americans purchase."

Speaking at a German-American Republican Day rally in this northern Chicago suburb, Klein also said McGovern's "dangerous defense cut" would allow the United States to become a second rate power to the Soviet Union.

Skaggs elected

BURLEY — Charles Skaggs has been elected chairman of the Burley Planning Commission. He replaces Lex Kunaj who has held the post for two years.

Other officers elected are William MacKnight, vice chairman, and Pat Holsinger, secretary.

The planning commission will meet the second Wednesday of each month in the Burley City Council chambers.

License plates can be reserved

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls drivers wishing to reserve license plate numbers may do so starting at 8:30 a.m. Friday at the county courthouse.

County Assessor Ronald Taylor said, however, that the final number of the reserved plate must coincide with the final number of the driver's present plate.

Taylor also said the reserved plates would be issued when the present plates expire in each individual case.

Taylor also said persons would only be allowed to reserve one license plate in the first fifty serial numbers. There is a $1 fee for reserving license plate numbers.

China issue said 'never settled'

TOKYO (UPI) — Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today he believes the China issue was never satisfactorily settled after World War II and that even now it is beyond Japan's capacity to help settle it once and for all.

"The question of China has been a problem since the end of the war," Ohira told a news conference for foreign newsmen here. "It is an old issue as well as a new issue... it has not been satisfactorily settled in Japan."

"But international developments regarding the People's Republic of China have dramatically changed lately and public opinion in Japan is strongly in favor of settling (the problem)."

"The fact is that there are two governments (of China) and this makes a clear-cut solution beyond our capacity," he added.

Gem re-elect president group spends $14,843

BOISE (UPI) — Latest campaign financial reports show the Idaho Finance Committee to Re-elect the President has taken in $22,463.64 and spent $14,843.29.

Major contributors showing on the Sept. 10 report Monday included Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Duncan, Bryan, Tex., land developer and banker, $6,000; Joseph Segel, Merion, Pa., president of the Franklin Mint, $2,000.15; Evan P. Hoffer, Milwaukee, Wis., listed as retired, $2,778.40; H. F. Johnson, Racine, Wis., listed as retired, $1,500; Lloyd Haight, Boise, vice president and general counsel for J. R. Simplot Co., $500, and the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, Washington, D.C., $7,500.

Meantime, former Gov. Robert E. Smylie reported he spent $40,228.23 on his unsuccessful attempt to win the GOP nomination for U. S. Senate. His Smylie for Senator Committee listed receipts of $39,614.71. It also showed contributions from the candidate himself of $3,100 on Aug. 1 and $5,000 on Aug. 23.

The committee listed debts and obligations owed by it of $35,594.12 including $19,689.02 to Givens - Davies Advertising Agency, Inc.

Wayne L. Kidwell filed a final report showing he spent $5,100 on his campaign for the Republican congressional nomination in the first district. Under his own name he showed receipts of $4,700 including a $4,000 loan.

Kidwell's "Go Idaho Committee" showed receipts of $575 and expenditures of $688.94 while the "Kidwell for Congress Committee" showed receipts of $33,039.38 and expenditures of $33,039.38. In addition, the Kidwell for Congress Committee listed indebtedness of $10,160.38.

Receipts to the Kidwell for Congress Committee listed on its final report for the unsuccessful candidate included $1,500 from the business industry political action committee on Aug. 1; $500 contributions by D. Duff McKee on July 8 and Aug. 2 and $500 from E. B. Smith on July 8.

Gem air quality hearing planned

BOISE (UPI) — Proposed additions and changes to Idaho's air quality implementation plan will be considered Thursday at a joint state and federal hearing in the Fish and Game Building.

James A. Bax, administrator of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, said both the state and federal proposals on air pollution control will be presented at the hearing.

A.J. Elguren, assistant administrator, said two major areas of concern are involved in the proposals.

— Procedure for approving new sources that could cause air pollution.

— Establishment of regulations for control of sulfur dioxide sources now in existence.

"In approving new sources we will be demanding the best technology available at the time of construction be used to avoid future problems," Elguren said.

"We must demand that best technology be used to control new sources of pollution if we are to carry out our responsibilities as an environmental protection agency."

Elguren said both the Bunker Hill Co. at Kellogg and J.R. Simplot Co. at Pocatello will be affected by the proposed regulations for control of sulfur dioxide gas.

Sunday only

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (UPI) — Kakabeka Falls, 18 miles from Thunder Bay, flows only on Sundays. The 128-foot falls, called the Niagara of the North, are dry on weekdays when the water is diverted through a flume to generate hydroelectric power for the industrial area of northwest Canada.

Historic 20th olympics come to close in Munich

MUNICH (UPI)—The 20th Olympics, opened on a perfect note of happiness but ripped apart by violence, came to an end Monday on a chilly Bavarian evening.

With a blue and orange plastic rainbow stretching 250 feet above one end of Olympic stadium, more than 80,000 persons bundled in warm clothing came to say good-bye to the most historic Olympics ever put together.

A light breeze fluttered the Olympic flag and the flags of the competing nations which rimmed half the top of the stadium. The flag of Israel, standing in the center of the assembled banners, was the only one to be flying at half staff.

Part of the traditional festive parts of the closing ceremony were eliminated because of the deaths of 11 Israeli Olympic team members in the Arab guerrilla attack last Tuesday.

The ceremonies began promptly at 7:30 p.m. (2:30 EDT) with the playing of the Olympic fanfare and the dimming of lights throughout the stadium. The first persons into the stadium were members of a Bavarian band and marching unit, followed by 50 ladies dressed in costumes symbolic of Southern Germany.

That group was followed by standard bearers carrying flags of each of the nations who had taken part in the Olympics.

Compared to the opening ceremonies when members of each nation's team came in to the stadium following their own flag, the closing ceremony finds all of the flags brought in at the same time.

The athletes then came in one long line, without formality and in most cases with their arms locked together.

Although hundreds of athletes already had left Munich, thousands were on hand for the closing ceremony.

Delegates from one country mingled with another as the parade encircled the track and the athletes began to scatter throughout the infield grass. Although the costumes were, for the most part, less spectacular than those worn under the bright sunshine on opening day, colors still abounded.

Many delegations chose extra clothing for the cool evening, since temperatures were hovering in the 50's.

Although some of the livelier portions of the ceremony were eliminated, the entry into the stadium by the athletes was as full of good cheer as always.

The crowd soon responded to the waving of the athletes by starting up a rhythmic clap.

It took only 15 minutes for the athletes and Olympic officials to assemble in the stadium, with one of the last ones to appear being Immense Alexander Medved, the Russian who won the super heavy weightlifting gold medal.

Once the athletes were in position, Avery Brundage, outgoing president of the International Olympic Committee, walked to a podium on the infield grass to address an Olympic ceremony for the final time.

Looking down on Brundage were the lone remaining Israelis at the Olympics, members of their country's press. They stood standing in the midst of the press section holding a 10-foot long flag of Israel.

Before Brundage spoke, the national anthems of the 1972 Olympic host and the host for 1976—West Germany and Canada—were played.

On the three flag standards at the end of the stadium, were raised the flags of those two countries and that of Greece, where the Olympics began.

"I declare the Games of the 20th Olympiad closed," Brundage said, "and in accordance with tradition, I call upon the youth of all countries to assemble four years from now at Montreal, there to celebrate with us the Games of the 21st Olympiad."

"May they display cheerfulness and concord so that the Olympic torch will be carried on with ever greater eagerness and for the good of humanity throughout the ages."

Brundage then addressed himself to the residents of the host town.

"Dear citizens of Munich," he said, "your heartfelt and warm hospitality has moved us deeply."

"We have celebrated these days of radiant happiness with one another and have borne the difficult hours of terrible sorrow together with you all."

"Now the time for farewell has come. Upon our journey back to our fatherlands, we leave you all with these words: 'Auf Wiedersehen.'"

The lights in the huge stadium were then dimmed to their lowest level and the Olympic flame was extinguished to the melancholy strains of a single trumpet.

In the darkness of the stadium the thousands arose for a moment of silence in memory of the slain Israelis. Then came a five gun salute, with one spotlight lighting around the stadium—as each of the cannonades was sounded.

Those spotlights shown on the Olympic flag, which was then lowered by the same eight young men who had raised it two weeks before—the members of Germany's 1968 gold medal rowing team. The flag was carried by them around the track under the glare of the spotlights and carried out of the stadium.

Then the spotlights trained on the huge orange, yellow, green, purple and blue rainbow and an Olympic anthem first written for the first modern Olympics in Athens was played.

California coaches praised for opening game upsets

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Coaches John McKay of the University of Southern California and Pepper Rodgers of UCLA Monday received accolades for their football victories over Arkansas and Nebraska in opening game upsets.

Rodgers said there was a personal satisfaction in the Bruins' win because he was coaching in the Big Eight at Kenosha when Nebraska started its streak of 32 unbeaten games.

"I think Nebraska will be a lot better now that we beat them," Rodgers told the Southern California Football Writers. "Any team that has gone 32 games without a defeat is bound to be a little confident."

I think defensively Nebraska is still great. Offensively, they will improve as their sophomore quarterback becomes better. And that Johnny Rodgers is as good as ever."

Rodgers had high praise for all his performers both on offense and defense, but the highest for running back James McAllister and quarterback Mark Harmon, who were making their varsity debuts.

"I've been around some good quarterbacks like Bobby Daughies, Gary Beban and Steve Spurrier," said Rodgers, "but for an opening game, Mark's performance was better than any I've seen. And McAllister played an outstanding game but he will have better games statistically—even though he gained 90 yards against the greatest defense team in the country."

McKay felt his team's performance was more notable because it was against the greatest quarterback in the country in his opinion, Joe Ferguson.

"But we didn't feel Ferguson was going to eliminate us," he said. "We felt if we could shoot down Ferguson we could contain Arkansas. We didn't worry too much about their running attack."

McKay singled out quarterback Mike Rae and Linebacker Richard Wood for praise.

"Rae did what we expected of him. We never said he wasn't a great passer even when he played behind Jimmy Jones. But there's more to football than passing. He did a fine job running the club and carrying the ball."

Both McKay and Rodgers, however, cautioned against too much optimism as a result of the season-opening victories.

"One victory means the worst we can be is 1-10," said McKay. "We feel we have a good chance to win them all but if we met Arkansas again I'm not positive we could beat them."

"We're off to a winning start by beating Nebraska," said Rodgers. "It doesn't mean we are at the top or close to it."

Harmon and Rae were named the co-players of the week for their performances.

Yankees defeat Detroit

DETROIT (UPI)—Consecutive home runs by Bobby Murcer and Felipe Alou started a three-run fourth inning Monday night which carried the New York Yankees to a 4-2 rain-abbreviated win over the Detroit Tigers.

Time was called in the top of the sixth inning with a 3-1 count on leadoff batter Norm Cash and the game was called one hour and 43 minutes later.

The series sweep by New York put the Yankees into third place and shoved the Tigers a half game behind them. New York, which goes back to New York to face Boston Tuesday night, is 11-2 games behind the Red Sox.

Steve Kline won his 16th game in 22 decisions with a four-hitter, giving up three of them in the first inning.

Murcer's 28th home run of the season tied the game 2-2 and Alou hammered his fifth on the next pitch to put New York in front. It was his 20th career home run.

Fred Scherman, making only his third start of the season, was removed after he walked Thurman Munson. Pinch-hitter Johnny Callison greeted Chuck Seelbach with a line angle to right which scored Munson, who had stolen second, and he continued to third when right-fielder Duke Sims had the ball bounce over his glove and roll to the fence.

Seelbach's 28th home run of the season tied the game 2-2 and Alou hammered his fifth on the next pitch to put New York in front. It was his 20th career home run.

Weather matches mood of athletes in village

MUNICH (UPI)—The last day matched the general mood in the Olympic Village. Gray, dismal and overcast. There wasn't much laughter to be heard.

In the recreation area, where the athletes from all the different countries gathered during their off-time each day to play chess, ping pong or miniature golf, there was no one in sight.

Many didn't even bother waiting for the early evening closing ceremony in the Olympic Stadium which traditionally winds up the Games. They had packed their belongings and hurried home.

If you had to put your finger on the prevailing feeling among those who lingered for those last few hours, it would have to be one of fruitlessness and disillusionment, a sense of not having achieved what they had really come here for.

This let-down feeling seemed to be shared by winners and losers alike.

Randy Williams, the 18-year-old U.S. gold medalist in the long jump, didn't have to think long when someone wanted to know how he felt about these Olympics now that they were coming to a close.

"Disappointed," replied the Fresno, Calif., youngster.

Why?

Because I expected the Olympic Games would be full of life, love and gaiety and they turned out to be ugly and disastrous."

Disastrous for a 19-year-old kid who had come over here and won himself a gold medal?

Williams didn't back down.

"We put so much emphasis on gold," he said. "Winning gold medals is considered more important than winning friendship and peace. You've seen that flame on top of the stadium, haven't you? It's supposed to symbolize peace and friendship, isn't it? Those doves they turned loose and those balloons they sent up are symbols of the same thing. Peace and friendship. Still there was Rhodesia and then the Israelis."

The politics were also discussed by Williams, a University of Southern California student.

"When the Olympics no longer have politics in them, they'll be good, but I don't think that'll ever happen," Williams said.

"The old fugees at the head of this thing run it like some kind of military institution. They think in terms of 1936 instead of 1972. The average athlete is 24. The guys running things are 65. How can they identify with the problems of somebody 25?"

Yes, Williams said, he was talking about the U.S. Olympic Committee members.

"They're too old," said the young long jumper. "Certainly there's a generation gap. How could there help be?" You take these Olympic Committee guys. They stay at some of the finest hotels in Munich. They pay $5 a day for a room. Someone's picking up the tab. Who's doing it? Regardless, when a kid has a problem and wants to call home, these guys tell him they can't afford the money for such calls."

Williams said, he was talking about the U.S. Olympic Committee members.

Allen bats Sox past Royals 2-1

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Dick Allen became the most productive single season home run hitter in Chicago White Sox history Monday night, hammering his 34th of the season in the first inning to carry the White Sox to a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Tom Bradley, who went 8-23 in innings, and Terry Forster combined on a three-hitter to give the White Sox the victory.

Bradley had a two-hit shutout until Steve Hovley homered with two out in the ninth and Forster then came on to get the final out.

Allen hit a two-run homer in the first inning to give the Sox a 2-0 lead. He then hit a single in the fifth to make it 3-0.

Hovley hit a home run in the ninth to tie the game 3-3. Forster then pitched a perfect ninth to get the final out.

Giants cut four players

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants cut four players Monday, including linebatter Ralph Heck, a 10-year veteran, to meet the league limit of 40 men by Sunday's National Football League season opener.

New York also waived tight end Dick Kottle and rookie quarterback Ed Baker. Bart Butow, a rookie offensive tackle, was placed on the injured reserve list.

Heck, who was with the Giants for 10 years, was waived because of a knee injury.

Kottle, who was with the Giants for two years, was waived because of a knee injury.

Baker, who was with the Giants for one year, was waived because of a knee injury.

Nicklaus is top winner

NEW YORK (UPI)—DeWitt Weaver, playoff victor over Chuck Courtney in the Southern Open Sunday and winner of the $20,000 first prize, jumped from 65th to 37th in the standings of the Professional Golf Association's leading money winners.

But far ahead of all golfers remains a far-outside Jack Nicklaus.

Weaver, with total tour earnings of $51,855, has a long way to go, as does everyone else, to catch Nicklaus, whose total of $280,482 leads his nearest rival, Lee Trevino by more than $110,000.

OIL HELPS IDAHO SCHOOLS MAKE THE GRADE

Our schools use hundreds of things that are made from oil: desk tops and fiberglass seats, educational films, tapes and records, paint, ink... even the erasers on pencils.

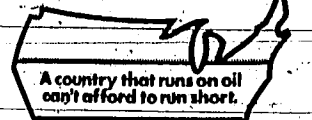

But most of all, schools use energy. For heat, light and transportation. 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity).

But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it's as simple as A-B-C... a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

Sooners gain top spot in early UPI ratings

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oklahoma's bid for a return to the Bud Wilkinson glory years of perennial No. 1 ratings came early this year with an assist from the team that stood in the Sooners' way last year.

As last year's national champion Nebraska saw its 32-game unbeaten streak go down the drain 20-17 at the hands of UCLA in the season's opener, Big Eight rival Oklahoma moved in quickly to fill the void at the top of the United Press International Board of Coaches football ratings.

The Sooners will have to do well once they begin play however as they hold a narrow lead over Southern California (270-286) and both teams received 11 first place votes from the 35 coaches on the board.

Southern Cal's leap in the ratings can be traced to the sound (31-10) thrashing it gave to Arkansas last week, and Colorado's sluggish (20-10) opening-day win over unranked California may be the reason for its failure to move up in the wake of Nebraska's loss. The Buffs came in third with 264 points.

Ohio State, with four first places to its credit, was fourth with 192 points and Alabama, benefactor of two No. 1 nods from the coaches, was fifth with 178 points.

Tennessee, which opened the season on national TV with an impressive 34-3 drubbing of Georgia Tech last weekend, was sixth with 160 and Eastern Penn. State was right behind in seventh with 155. They'll get a chance to settle that early season logjam this Saturday night at Knoxville.

LSU was eighth and Nebraska dropped all the way to ninth while Michigan completed the first 10 teams.

UCLA, which got one first-place vote after knocking off the Cornhuskers, moved in at No. 11 and after that it was Arizona State (12th), Texas (13th), Notre Dame (14th), Washington (15th), Florida State (16th) and Georgia and Iowa State tied for (17th). The final two spots went to Purdue and Auburn.

Here by sections are the coaches who comprise the United Press International University Division Football Ratings Board:

East: Joe Yukica, Boston College; Tom Cahill, Army; Rick Forzani, Navy; Len Jardine, Brown; Ben Schwartzwalder, Syracuse.

Midwest: Ara Parseghian, Notre Dame; Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State; Bo Schembechler, Michigan; Alex Agnes, Northwestern; Bob Blackman, Illinois.

Eagles release veteran backs

READING, Pa. (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles Monday cut veteran running backs Jim Nance and Tom Woodeshick and two other players to bring their roster down to the 40-man limit.

The cuts, which also included veteran defensive end Don Brumm and rookie middle linebacker Will Foster, were announced at the Eagles training camp here.

Nance, a 10-year veteran, came to the Eagles from the New England Patriots in August. A Syracuse star, he was the Patriots' all-time leading rusher.

Nance was used sparingly by the Eagles, starting in only one pre-season game.

The decision to cut Nance came after it became apparent that he was not going to provide the outside running the team was looking for.

"We decided to go with other backs," said Eagles head coach Ed Khayat. "Larry Watkins has really come on as our starting fullback." Woodeshick, a 10-year Eagle veteran, was the team's top ground gainer in 1967, 1968 and 1969. He was plagued by a knee injury in 1970 and 1971 but still finished among the team's top rushers last season.

The former West Virginia player, a native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., told newsmen three weeks ago that he was expecting to be cut.

"I don't expect to see my name on a locker here much longer," he said. Woodeshick saw little action in the Eagles' pre-season games.

Brumm, another 10-year veteran, was signed by the Eagles as a free agent in 1970. He was placed on the team's taxi-squad at the beginning of last season, but was later put on the roster and played in nine games.

Foster was the Eagles' seventh-round draft choice in 1971. He played college football at Eastern Michigan.

Basketball coach relates sad tales

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—The ball game wasn't the only thing U.S. Olympic basketball coach Henry Iba lost in the hectic confusion which marked the controversial $150 Russian victory over the United States for the gold medal at Munich.

Don Haskins head basketball coach at the University of Texas at El Paso and Iba's assistant at the games, returned home Monday with several sad tales to relate about his final days in Munich.

Speaking of the crowded consternation on the floor at the game's end, Haskins said: "It proved to be a very profitable time for pickpockets. During the mob scene, Iba's pockets were picked for $375. I heard of four other people losing a total of $700."

Haskins kept most of his bitterness at the outcome locked inside him in his first interview back home, but he was firmly convinced that "we won the game twice and then had it taken away from us."

Haskins said the last Russian basket should not have been allowed "even if other procedures on extending the time were correct."

"The buzzer sounded before he shot the ball. In international rules, time starts when the player inbound the ball touches it. So, it was pretty hard to throw the ball the full length of the court and for the Russian to run around and shoot in three seconds."

"Besides, he fouled (Jim) Forbes, knocking him down."

Forbes is the member of Haskins' UT-El Paso team who was added to the Olympic squad when one of the original players was hurt.

Haskins said he had an even more shaking experience in Munich than the game. He said he watched as the nine Israeli hostages, blindfolded and chained together, were being taken out of the Olympic Village and put in helicopters to be taken to the Munich airport where they were killed by Arab guerrillas.

"I could hear the Israelis sobbing," he said.

Controlled hunt history goes back over 50 years

The winners are happy — the ones who fail to draw sometimes are critical of the way things are done at public drawings for controlled hunt permits. The laws of chance do strange things. Some people have drawn permits for elk, deer and antelope hunts repeatedly. Others have applied year after year — and never got one. The latter sometimes question the honesty of the drawings, or procedures.

Reports have reached the Idaho Fish and Game Department (or the Commission, State Legislature and even the Governor) that permits were available — if only one had the money — or knew somebody who would put him on the inside track. Some people said special hunts were nothing but a money-making scheme — and had nothing to do with proper harvest or management. It has been called a lottery and it has been hailed as the best tool the department has to control hunting today.

Special hunts do have faults. Many have been eliminated over the past half century as they were found unworkable or unnecessary. New regulations have been added to try to improve processing and assure a fair and equitable opportunity for everyone. The public always has been invited to come into the Boise headquarters office of the department to see how the hunts are handled, and to observe the public drawings — and even participate — as they occur. The department welcomes suggestions for improving any part of the procedure.

Permit hunting is rooted in 1919 Idaho law preventing the taking of any game animal on any game preserve. This was amended later to provide for removal of excessive numbers of game animals. One part says "the state game warden may hold public drawings and issue permits to take buck deer, bull elk, bull moose, buck antelope or buck sheep on any game preserve or elsewhere ... for a fee of $10."

The law was changed again in 1935 to allow the taking of "any class of game animals specially designated by the fish and game warden." Fee changes and other modifications also were made at that time. Ten years later, an amendment made the transfer of permits from one person to another unlawful. By 1945 the law required that any person obtaining a permit and hunting bull moose must be accompanied by a conservation officer, or by a person designated by the district supervisor to advise which bull could be shot.

That, too, has been changed. Even before controlled-hunt winners have been selected by people drawing cards from the big, revolving, machine-driven squirrel cage, all pertinent information will have been recorded on key-punch cards. Winning cards then are sorted mechanically, both alphabetically and numerically, and lists of names, addresses, license and hunt numbers will be made. These will be typed automatically for mailing and publicity purposes.

The final step in the operation is to match the list of winners and the permits for reconciliation and balancing with money received along with the applications. When this has been done, money is returned to non-winners of the controlled hunt drawings, and winners are notified individually and through publicity releases.

This year, successful applicants for controlled moose, sheep and goat hunts have received their coveted permits and unsuccessful applicants have received their money back. In both the first and second public drawings for these trophy species, all hunt

Colts veteran will not quit

BAITMORE (UPI)—Veteran tight end John Mackey charged Monday night that the Baltimore Colts were trying to force him into retirement and stubbornly said "I will not retire."

The nine-year Colts stalwart and three-time all-pro said Colts Coach Don McCafferty refused to place him on waivers and would "have me just sit on the bench all season."

Earlier Monday, Colt Vice President and General Manager Joseph H. Thomas said Mackey was unhappy because he wasn't in the starting lineup and had decided to retire.

"I haven't retired and I won't retire," Mackey said. "I just told Coach McCafferty I wasn't going to sit on the bench. I'm in too good a shape to sit on the bench."

Thomas said Mackey told McCafferty that he would rather be traded or retire, if he could not start.

"We want John Mackey to play and we told him that," Thomas added. "But he reiterated that if he was not a starter, he wanted to be traded or retire."

Thomas said he attempted by telephone to trade Mackey to another American Football Conference team, "but since none was consummated Mackey announced his retirement."

Mackey said he then asked to be placed on waivers by the Colts and McCafferty said, "No I couldn't do that to a ball player of your caliber."

Mackey said he replied: "What caliber, if I am only a second-string end?" McCafferty said Tom Mitchell, who replaced Mackey in the starting lineup for part of last season, would be the number one tight end.

"He (McCafferty) knew he was going to start Mitchell," Mackey said, "he should have traded me and had a younger player sit on the bench behind Mitchell."

Contacted later about Mackey's charges, McCafferty said "No comment."

Drafted in 1963, after playing halfback and end at Syracuse, Mackey spent his entire career with the Colts. He competed in five Pro Bowls and in one Super Bowl and was All-Pro in 1968-69.

The 30-year-old Mackey has pulled down 320 passes for 5,117 yards and 38 touchdowns during his career.

Replacing Mackey in the starting lineup is six-year veteran Tom Mitchell who finished his finest season with the Colts last year with 34 catches and 402 yards.

Mitchell took Mackey's starting spot last season in the fourth game of the season. Mackey suffered a knee injury and missed the game against Buffalo and when he returned the next week, Mitchell had his starting spot.

Last season, Mackey caught 11 passes for 143 yards and didn't score a touchdown.

As a reserve tight end, the Colts picked up John Mosier from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

"You hate to lose a player of John Mackey's caliber," the coach said. He has had a bright career for the Colts and we will miss him."

Besides Scotland Yard in London, there are 67 other regular police forces in England.

WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI)—New York Knicks captain Willis Reed, who saw only 363 minutes of action in 11 games before an attack of tendonitis forced him out of action for the duration of the 1971-72 campaign, Monday signed a multi-season contract. It was announced by club president Ned Irish.

Pakistan banned from competition

MUNICH (UPI)—The International Field Hockey Federation suspended Pakistan Monday from all international competition for an indefinite period because of its conduct during and after the Olympic Games finals Sunday.

Pakistan, the reigning world champion and defending Olympic champion, lost 1-0 to West Germany in a rowdy match followed by an uproar among players and spectators.

The Pakistanis at first refused to accept silver medals and players accused officials of cheating.

"It was fixed in advance," Pakistan coach Ghulam Chaudhry was quoted as saying,

"Germany had to win."

The president of the Federation, Rene Frank of France, warned Pakistan then he would recommend action against the team.

"The president of the Federation has decided to suspend the Pakistan hockey federation from all international activities," the statement said. "This comprises the suspension of the manager and all the players who took part in the Olympic final ..."

Fans shouting abuse ran onto the field at the end of the match trying to get to the judges' bench. Police restrained them, but the award ceremony was delayed 20 minutes.

Petraglia wins tourney

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Johnny Petraglia of Brooklyn, N.Y., won the $50,000 Bellows Valley Open bowling tournament Monday night, his first title in more than a year.

Petraglia finished with 10,208 pins to runnerup Carmen Salvo's 10,131. First place was worth $8,000.

Petraglia, a 25-year-old southpaw who won a record $85,000 last year, had a close call in the next to last match of the 42-game event when he rolled only a 155.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is good for you to make up your mind and to organize a campaign whereby you can gain the aims that mean the most to you. Afternoon and evening you are able to put such a course into active expression as well as let others know just what you do have in mind and to get their assistance quickly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to duties early so you can make new acquaintances later, look into new outlets, etc. Investigate new sources of information so you can extend your present views. Don't argue with mate in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can complete those talks with an associate early in the day so later you can delve right into the work necessary to further mutual aims. Try to be more understanding with mate. Be ahead of the game.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get all those duties handled most efficiently now if you really apply yourself. Get at them early and then you can join the world of action for good purposes. Fix your wardrobe to please own tastes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan the recreation you want to have early. Then get right into important work with partners with enthusiasm. You can convince someone to do what you want in the morning, but others are not so amenable later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle that situation at home very carefully in a.m. Then you can work on creative activity with bigwigs and make big headway. Get into basic matters that are important. Evening is fine for amusements.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Appointments and shopping should be scheduled early so that later you can be with kin to have more harmony at home. You had better plan early what you will say in that vital conversation you want to have with another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have practical affairs to handle early so do not procrastinate any longer. Get routine work out of the way, too. Pay those important bills also. Don't forget shopping.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make that plan of action early so that you can then plow through it successfully and gain the benefits therefrom. Entertain those to whom you are obligated, and show appreciation for their relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Out to some place where you can concentrate and plan the future more intelligently; then you can set the wheels in motion with good pals. Listen to advice from experts and follow it. Avoid one who argues too much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know what your true aims are and who you want to see today, then carry through in a most positive fashion. Study that particular aim well before you take any action on it. Evening is fine for happiness with mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are under some pressure now that requires thought and right action immediately. Then get out to the activities that interest you most. A higher-up can give fine aid in a.m., provided you contact early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are highly inspired now on how to gain your fondest aspirations, but be sure to contact bigwig for his okay. A study of facts at hand can give you the knowledge you seek. Then you can expand as you wish.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming and logical young people who is forever making plans and carrying them through to gain what is most important. Upon reaching maturity your son or daughter will want to express self in a most ideal and articulate way, so it is vital for you to give the finest education you can afford. There can be fame in this chart, provided the ethical and spiritual training necessary is not neglected.

Approximately half the bras sold nationwide are padded. That fact has been reported. Now, too, it's revealed that California is a superior market for such merchandise. In North Carolina, the demand is low. Likewise low in Texas. Washington girls buy up a considerable quantity. But Idaho and Montana women not so many. Nor are Indiana and Ohio particularly noteworthy for the number of feminine purchasers of padded bras.

WORLD'S most famous chess player a couple hundred years ago was unknown by name. He was a legless midge. His showman partner Kompelen decked him out in a mechanical-man costume fitted with small doors which opened to show nothing but tiny turning wheels. This little fellow toured Europe to defeat all the leading chess players of his time.

YOUNG LADY, do you regard yourself as the jealous type? If so, never mind. It's not your fault maybe. Numerous students of the mind now contend it's an inherited characteristic. If you aren't born with it, you won't come down with it, they say. And they say further it's totally absent in a lot of people.

QUERIES Q. "Why did you shave off your mustache, Louis?" A. You mean 20 years ago? Distinctly recollect why. To a young lady friend of the day, I quoted that old Spanish proverb, "A kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt." But she said, "Too salty."

1,000 4-H youths slate district fair at Jerome

JEROME — Nine area counties are expected to take part in the annual South Central Idaho District Fair in Jerome Sept. 13-16.

Bill Priest, Jerome County agent, said that more than 1,000 youngsters are expected to participate in the fair activities, which will be held at the Jerome County Fairgrounds.

Counties that will be participating include Jerome, Blaine, Lincoln, Camas, Elmore, Twin Falls, Gooding, Cassia and Minidoka.

Priest said each county is allowed to enter the first three blue ribbon winners of an area fair project or those whom the judge in a particular division feels is qualified.

Jerome will be in charge of the style review program, with all blue ribbon winners eligible. In addition, two teams are eligible from each county for livestock and home economics judging contest and each county can send those the judge designates as eligible for home economics and agricultural demonstrations.

Priest said

He noted that special demonstrations will include lambs, dairy foods and poultry and explained that all meat exhibits must be accompanied by record books.

The schedule of events will be as follows: Sept. 13 contestants will check in their entries in the modern beef contest at 2 p.m. A live evaluation of steers will be held at 3 p.m.

Sept. 14, from 1 to 4 p.m., all projects with the exception of livestock and dogs will be checked in.

Newcomers speak to Burley chamber

BURLEY — Several newcomers to Burley were the speakers during the Burley Chamber of Commerce Monday luncheon.

Dr. Charles Terhune introduced Dr. Richard Chess who spoke briefly.

Dr. Chess was introduced to the Burley area by Dr. Richard McClure, radiologist at Cassia Memorial Hospital. Dr. Chess opened his office in Burley in August. He and his wife, Mary, and three children reside in the Springdale area.

Dr. McClure also was a guest at the luncheon.

Rev. Joseph Muha, new pastor of the St. Therese Catholic Church, spoke briefly.

Rev. Muha was introduced by Jay Schofield, chamber president.

Dr. Jack Zarybnsky, optometrist, was introduced by Dr. Howard A. Donaldson as his new associate.

President Schofield announced a board of directors meeting at 7 a.m. Thursday at Bryan's Cafe. He also announced that Louise Shaduck will be the guest speaker at Monday's luncheon meeting.

On Sept. 25 the chamber will host the new teachers in the Cassia County School district and the school board.

Cassia historical society asks aid

BURLEY — Cassia County Historical Society officers requested financial aid from the county commissioners Monday.

The officers, Al Dawson, Mike Feiler and Leo Henschel, are asking $3,500 for repairs and upkeep of the county museum.

John Clark, commission chairman, said any funds would have to be budgeted from a mill levy. According to law, up to 15 mills can be levied for this purpose. The commissioners said it would require a 6 of a mill to raise the $3,500, more than the legal maximum.

Walter Smythe was spokesman for the Senior Citizen group and requested financial aid from the county for a building for a meeting place. Smythe reported federal grants will not buy property but will pay rent.

The old Cassia Lumber building and yards at 1634 Overland Ave. would be an ideal place for a Senior-Citizen Center, according to Smythe. There are about 700 members of the Senior Citizens group in Cassia and Minidoka counties now using the VFW Hall in Burley as a meeting place, Smythe reported.

The commissioners informed the Senior Citizens group there was no law that gave the county commissioners the right to give them any funds.

Johnny McGill reported to the commissioners the problem of illegal dumping east of Declo. Several months ago the commissioners made an agreement with Wayne Newcomb for $1,000 to clean up the Declo dumpsite which is on Newcomb's land. Newcomb has hired McGill to clean up the site. McGill reported to the commissioners he is working on the site in his spare time and people are dumping faster than he can clean it up.

At one time all the old car bodies were hauled off and now there are 60 old cars at the Declo Dump.

The commissioners notified the county sheriff's office of the problem of illegal dumping at Declo and requested the sheriff to police the area and issue citations to offenders.

Too long

BOISE (UPI) — The State Highway Board has banned overnight parking in rest areas along Idaho highways.

Until now, the board has permitted motorists to park in such areas for up to 18 hours. Director Lloyd Barron, Fairfield, said he thinks 18 hours "is too long."

However, Barron said he felt it is all right for a tourist to stay overnight so long as he treats the facilities in the rest area properly.

But director John Fanning, Idaho Falls, said the areas were not designed for campers, but as a safety measure.

The board told the Highway Department to initiate the new policy on a selective basis, especially for rest areas with limited space and those close to camping facilities.

Scheduling studied

By DIXIE DIXON Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — Richfield School Trustees discussed at length the modular flexible scheduling adopted earlier this year for the high school.

The MFS system permits high school students more flexibility in class schedules, with students having class periods of varying lengths on varying days.

The board decided to continue its evaluation throughout the semester before deciding whether to retain the system.

Supt. Neil Andreason reported the school furnace had been repaired and will be back in operation today. The furnace had been out of operation so far this year.

He said homecoming will be held Sept. 29, featuring a football game with Dietrich, followed by a reception.

Homecoming queen will be crowned at game halftime, he said. A homecoming dance is scheduled in the school gym at 9 p.m.

The board approved purchase of a new school bus and called for bids.
